TALLULAH FALLS SUIT WON BY POWER COMPANY

Attorney General Felder Files Motion for a New Trial, Which Will Take Case to Supreme Court.

STATE LOSES AFTER 3 DAYS' LEGAL BATTLE

Verdict for Georgia Railway and Power Company Returned After the Jury Had Been Out Two Hours.

By J. Walter LeCraw.

Clayton, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—The Georgia Railway and Power company won the verdict in the Tallulah Falls land suit this evening, bringing to a close the three days' hearing in Rabun county superior court. The verdict was returned at 6:15 p. m., after the jury had been in session for over two hours, and was announced by Daniel M. Kell, foreman, a gray-haired man of over 60 years, and one of the oldest and most picturesque citizens of this county.

Attorney General T. S. Felder immediately gave notice of motion for a new trial. This will carry the question before the supreme court of Georgia, where, it is predicted, that even a hotter fight will be waged than the one just finished at Clayton.

The courtroom was only moderately filled when the verdict was read. Congratulations were passed among the lawyers for the power company, who, with Preston Arkwright, president of the company, had been in court awaiting the verdict for two hours.

Judge J. B. Jones, in charging the jury of eleven farmers and a school teacher, stressed the necessity of considering the case only from the standpoint of the law and justice, urging them not to be influenced by prejudice or emotion. He also stressed the value of the plats in settling the old lines, which was one of the many arguments of the power company's attorneys.

TWO NEW ARRESTS IN DOUBLE MURDER; MYSTERY DEEPENS

"Red" Merchant, Chum of Wade Stevens, Arrested, and Man Is Held as Half-Breed Suspect.

ATLANTA DETECTIVE TO AID DEKALB MEN

William Stevens Establishes Alibi for His Son, Who Came Back to Atlanta Last Night.

Detective John Black returned from Chattanooga at 2:05 o'clock this morning with Wade Stevens and Culbert (Red) Merchant, who were ordered held by the coroner in connection with the death of Mrs. Sarah S. Stevens.

The Stevens boy denied all knowledge of the crime. He says he went to Chattanooga on his way to Knoxville to get a job. He says he left Atlanta at 8:05 o'clock Tuesday night, and arrived in Chattanooga at 11:50 that night. Red Merchant corroborated his story.

Detective Black believes both boys are telling the truth, and that they did not know anything of the burning of the Stevens home until they were arrested. Both were held at police barracks.

Two new arrests were made late Thursday afternoon in the double murder of Mrs. Sarah C. Stevens and her daughter, Nellie, who were slain at midnight Wednesday and cremated in the flames of their home at the Adair-Donough roadside, near Constitution.

The most important arrest was that made late in the afternoon by the police of Fairburn, Ga., who captured a suspect loitering about the city, who is believed to be the Mexican half-breed who has been sought since the murders' discovery.

He gives the name of Frank Griss. His description, the Fairburn authorities say, tallies exactly with that of the half-breed at whom Mrs. Stevens fired two shots recently, when he was found lurking around the home in which she was slain.

The other arrest was that of "Red" Merchant, the youth who accompanied the suspected son, Wade Stevens, on his tramp to Chattanooga. Young Merchant, who is only 17 years old, was caught by Detective John Black, of police headquarters, shortly after he had taken the Stevens boy into custody.

Son of Former Teacher.

Merchant is a son of Professor J. F. Merchant, the former principal of the East Atlanta public school, who a year or more ago was the chief figure in a sensational trial before the board of education, which resulted from charges instituted against the principal by patrons of the East Atlanta institution. He arrived in Atlanta last night, looking for the arrival of his son.

The Merchant boy was a newsbutcher on the Georgia railroad, having been in the employ of the Central News company for considerable while. He was in intimate companion of Wade Stevens, whom he had known when the Stevens family resided in East Atlanta. He now is on his way to Atlanta and will be held at police headquarters for investigation.

Assistant Chief Jett received a telegram last night from the chief of the Fairburn police. He wired immediately asking that the suspect be held until the arrival of a man from Atlanta to identify the captive. A detective will leave for Fairburn early this morning.

The mystery of the murder of Mrs. Sarah Stevens and her daughter, Nellie, became more of a mystery Thursday afternoon, when the husband and father of the victims, William Stevens, arrived in Atlanta and declared at the undertaking shop in which lay the cremated skeletons of his loved ones that his son, Wade, was seen at 6 a. m. Wednesday in Chattanooga.

This eliminates the wayward youth from suspicion. The fire in which the mother and daughter were burned to death began at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday night, as has been stated by a railroad fireman. It is five hours' ride to Chattanooga. Young Stevens could not have committed the crime, it is said by detectives, and catch an outgoing train which would put him in the Tennessee city before 6 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Wade Stevens Arrested.

Wade was arrested Thursday afternoon in Chattanooga, and arrived in Atlanta last night at 7:30 o'clock, in charge of Detective John Black, of police headquarters. He told the detective, when discovered, that he was glad of the opportunity to return home and be present at the funeral of his mother and sister. He denied all knowledge of the murder until told of it by Black.

One of the most sorrowful of the

WOMAN'S EDITION INFORMATION.

All club women are again urged to send any subscriptions taken for The Woman's Edition, on June 4, in at once. Ten cents must be sent with complete list of addresses for each copy.

Clubs or club officers in the state who wish to sell copies of The Edition of their city can have any number desired sent to them by sending 10 cents per copy to The Woman's Edition Department, reimbursing themselves when they make their sales. Every club in the state can easily dispose of many in this way without risk of loss, and increase the circulation and the receipts largely. As much extra circulation as possible is desired for the benefit of the advertising as well as for the revenue in which the Federation shares.

Every club in the state should arrange for one or more copies of The Woman's Edition, for the club file and library, and every individual member will want to preserve a copy for permanent use on account of the fine historical and descriptive matter it will contain about all branches of club work.

Classified Advertising Section.

A special classified advertising section has been arranged for in which "want ads" will be accepted at 1 cent per word or 7 cents per line, cash with the copy. This department closes at 12 o'clock, Tuesday, June 3.

No better opportunity will ever be presented to classified advertisers, catering especially to women's needs, than this edition, with 18,000 women in the state, 8,000 of them in Atlanta, participating in its preparation and whose interest will be deeply concentrated upon everything it contains, both advertising and news matter.

A COSTLY "VICTORY"

ATLANTA TO BUY CREMATORY NOW AND END MUDDLE

Ashley Willing to Be One of 276 Citizens to Contribute $1,000 Each and Purchase the Plant for Cash.

The city will pay $276,000 on the crematory contract in 1913 as a solution of the garbage muddle resurrected by the decision of the state supreme court Wednesday afternoon.

Following a conference of leaders in council yesterday afternoon, it was announced that Chairman W. G. Humphrey, of the finance committee, will offer a resolution in council Monday afternoon, providing for the payment of the money on a new contract to be drawn up to conform with the court's ruling.

Mayor James G. Woodward, the only formidable foe of the crematory project, says that he will not consent to council sidetracking special projects to carry out the crematory deal. He says that he will refuse to sign any warrants until the contract is made legal, and a scheme devised which will not hurt the improvements that are necessary this year.

"Everyone seems to be alarmed all of a sudden over the possibility of people dying like flies this summer," Mayor Woodward said. "Why didn't they think about that in the first place? There doesn't seem to be much danger from that source. What is the finance committee and council going to do about the children of Atlanta who are housed in improvised schools which have been condemned by the newspapers as being fire traps and insanitary.

Attorney George Spence, of the firm of Evins, Spence & Moore, said Thursday afternoon that he was satisfied the city would meet the crisis. He said that he was not worried over the financial end of the contract; that his sole idea has been to get the plant up and burning garbage by June.

"Can Get It, Despit Woodward."

"If council passes up the money through the finance committee there will be no trouble getting it over the protests of Mayor Woodward," he said. "We have evaded taking the initiative in litigation, and we hope that when the court's ruling is conformed with, Mayor Woodward will not force the company to mandamus him."

Mayor Woodward stands alone in his fight against the crematory. Alderman John E. McClelland, who led the mayor's fight against the crematory in council, is away on leave of absence. Councilman Claude L. Ashley, of the fourth ward, who was one of the strongest supporters of Mayor Woodward's fight against tearing down the old $50,000 plant on Hulsey street, says he will be one of 276 citizens of Atlanta

CATTLE AND GRAIN ON THE FREE LIST

Senate Committee May Make Change to Equalize Duties on Raw Materials and Their Products.

Washington, May 29.—Whether to put cattle, wheat and oats on the free list or to put a duty on their products is one of the absorbing problems of the senate finance committee just now in revising the Underwood tariff bill for senate consideration. Senator Simmons, chairman of the committee; John Sharp Williams, chairman of the sub-committee handling the agricultural schedule, and Representative Underwood, chairman of the house ways and means committee, discussed the matter with President Wilson today. The president is reported to have agreed with Senator Williams and senator Simmons that raw materials and their products in the agricultural schedule should be equalized in the bill, instead of placing raw products in the dutiable list and making meats and flour free as in the bill at present. To equalize them was determined upon several weeks ago, and the senate subcommittee today is reported to have decided also to put cattle, sheep and hogs and wheat and oats on the free list.

Whether the president agreed to free listing of the raw materials or urged that the agricultural products be made dutiable in conformity with the Underwood rates on raw materials was not disclosed after today's conference, but democratic senators were resigned to the generally accepted report that all these articles would be placed on the free list.

Imports in United States Ships.

They were also generally in accord with the definite announcement by Senator Simmons after his conference with the president that the 5 per cent tariff discount on imports on American ships would be stricken from the bill.

Representative Underwood and other house leaders, however, are not satisfied that the discount conflicts with treaty provisions, and they are expected to make a fight to have the clause re-inserted when the bill reaches conference.

Free wool and free sugar as provided for in the Underwood bill tonight are regarded to be in a stronger position than ever, and tightening of the strings on these administration measures is reported to be due largely to President Wilson's Wilson's recent attack on efforts of lobbyists to change the sentiment as to these schedules. One democratic senator who heretofore has been of the mind that a small duty should have been placed on wool and that free sugar in three years should not have been imposed, changed his mind today. He now says he is convinced that both industries can get along without protection.

Cotton Schedule Rearranged.

The cotton schedule is reported now to be very unsatisfactory in many in-

AS WILSON "FANS" SENATE ORDERS PROBE OF LOBBY

Senators Must Even Testify Under Oath Concerning Their Own Interests in Revision of Tariff.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 29.—(Special.)—President Wilson played a Roosevelt-ian trick on the senate today. He went to the ball game and left his "colleagues of the senate" to pass a resolution for the investigation of the "numerous, industrious and insidious lobby," which he charged on Tuesday is seeking to amend the Underwood bill.

Not only the professional lobbyists are to be investigated, but senators are put on the defensive and must investigate themselves and testify under oath concerning their private business and interest in any industry affected by tariff revision.

Amendment by Kern.

The amendment offered to the Cummins resolution by Senator Kern, the democratic leader, relieves the president from naming the lobbyists he had in mind. It, however, "respectfully invites" him to furnish the senate any information in his possession.

Senators who have a financial or professional interest in any schedule of the tariff bill must testify under oath before the judiciary committee about that interest. They must tell whom they have seen on the tariff and what representations have been made to them and what methods have been used to influence their votes.

Senator Warren, of Wyoming, who is largely interested in wool growing, must tell the committee about that interest.

Senator Smoot, of Utah, who, as representative of the Mormon church, controls large beet sugar and wool industries, must give testimony to that effect before his colleagues.

Senator Lippitt, of Rhode Island, who offered the amendment requiring senators to make a clean breast of their personal interest in the tariff, is a heavy investor in New England cotton mills.

President Wilson has forced disclosures of personal interests before instead of after the bill is passed.

President Wilson, in his talk with the newspaper correspondents, today declared he was in sympathy with the proposed investigation, and would be glad to furnish the names of the lobbyists to whom he referred if "public necessity required."

Under the resolution which was adopted as introduced by Senator Cummins, with amendments by Senator Kern, the judiciary committee is directed to report its findings within ten

HELPED FRANK DISPOSE OF MARY PHAGAN'S BODY CONLEY NOW CONFESSES

Negro Sweeper Who Swore to Detectives That He Wrote Murder Notes Found Near Dead Girl's Body Now Admits His Complicity in Case, According to Statements Which Have Stirred Police Headquarters as Nothing Since Murder.

LANFORD AND BEAVERS PLEASED OVER RESULT OF GRILLING NEGRO, THEY ANNOUNCE TO REPORTERS.

Police and Detective Heads Refuse to Go Into Details of Negro's Statement Or to Discuss What He Said, But Declare That It Will Prove a Big Factor in the Murder Case—Negro Will Be Subjected to Another Third Degree Today.

Dumfounding his hearers with the confession that he had helped Leo M. Frank lower the lifeless body of Mary Phagan into the darkness of the pencil factory basement, James Conley, the negro sweeper, is authoritatively said to have made that astounding admission during a strenuous third degree at police headquarters late Thursday afternoon.

He is said to have minutely described the movements of himself and Frank as they packed the mutilated form from the office floor of the building down into the dark cellar, where it was left in the desolate recess in which it was discovered the following morning.

Saying he had found the girl stone dead when he entered the building at 1:15 o'clock with the suspected superintendent, he is declared to have admitted that he and Frank proceeded immediately to remove the corpse, silently and with utmost precaution, to its hiding place in the basement.

CONLEY ASKED NO QUESTIONS.

Through fear he states he did not ask his employer how the little girl met her death. He is said to have told the police that he asked no questions, carried out Frank's instructions to the letter, and departed directly after he emerged from the srewsome trip into the basement.

The girl's body was found, crumpled in a heap, gashed and distorted, secreted on the second floor, he is said to have confessed during the examination, when he arrived with Frank in the building. Frank said but few words, the negro is averred to have told, but helped to carry the corpse to its place of discovery beneath the factory.

As a result of the negro's confession, police headquarters is stirred as never since the murder. Both Chief Lanford and Chief Beavers declared to reporters that they were pleased even beyond expectation over the result of the Conley cross-examination. It was the most exacting of his entire imprisonment.

Although the source of The Constitution's information is substantial and authoritative, police officials refuse to discuss the negro's admission in detail. The police and detective chiefs will not commit themselves, and they neither deny nor affirm the information obtained by a Constitution reporter. The admission is said to have been made between 4:30 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon to Lanford, Beavers, Harry Scott, Secretary Febuary and Detective Pat Campbell.

Will Frank See the Negro?

A strong effort will be made today to confront the accused factory superintendent with Conley and his confession. Detectives who pin faith to the negro's story and believe Frank guilty, speculate upon the prisoner's unwillingness to face the sweeper. If he is not guilty, they say, he likely would not object to facing the negro. They say that it is damaging to his plea of innocence to refuse the negro an audience.

For four hours Thursday afternoon, Conley was subjected to the third degree. Newspaper reporters who usually hovered in convenient vicinity of the door leading to Chief Lanford's office, in which the examination was held, were "shooed" away and ordered to remain a good distance from the place.

The interrogation proceeded quietly, unlike the customary police third degree, in which loudness, abrupt orders and threats play prominent parts. Only a few hushed sounds sifted through the lattice work above the door. The entire third floor, where the detective department is situated, was redolent with the atmosphere of mystery.

Everybody seemed to feel the importance of the examination under way behind the locked doors of the chief's office. Everybody tingled with expectation. It was in the very air, and even though it came with the suddenness of a lightning stroke, the rumor of Conley's confession did not carry with it the surprise it ordinarily would have carried.

Officials Are Greatly Pleased.

The examination over, the police chiefs, Harry Scott, the Pinkerton man, Secretary Febuary and Detective Campbell emerged with satisfied smiles overspreading their features. Conley, his fingers twitching nervously as though the handcuffs he wore were chafing his wrists, came out between Scott and Campbell. Sweat streamed from his brow, and he was plainly agitated.

He was removed to his cell in the prison downstairs. It was planned to subject him to a further interrogation at night, but his pathetic plea for sleep and rest prevailed, and he curled up on his cell bunk and was sound asleep by 5 o'clock. He will be again examined today, however. He slept well throughout the night; in fact, better than he has slept since having

Washington, May 29.—Announcement was made here today of the purchase by Walter Pulitzer, of New York, of the "Uncle Remus" Magazine, founded several years ago by the late Joel Chandler Harris, at Atlanta, Ga.

NEW COMIC FEATURES FOR THE SUNDAY CONSTITUTION.

The Constitution next Sunday will begin the publication of two entirely new Comic Pages, in four colors, by two of the most popular "funny picture" artists in the country. They are entitled

SAMMY WISE, OF U. S. A.

THE QUALITY KID

The first consists of the adventures of an American boy touring Europe. He is a mischievous chap and has many excruciatingly funny experiences at the discomfiture of all those around him. The places he visits are drawn with accuracy so that Constitution readers who have visited the same places will recognize them instantly. The page will be found not only amusing but educational.

The Quality Kid gives the experiences of a rich little boy, who lives in luxury and amid the depressing ceremony of aristocracy, but who is democratic at heart and really likes the boys and girls of the streets, for whom he gives a party. There is a lot of trouble at the party. Spike, a big bulldog from the streets, causes most of it.

The Comic Section also contains, in new form, the two popular pages

Hank the Hermit, by Walt McDougall

Jolly Jumpers, by Harrison Cody

These four pages of comic pictures, all drawn by artists of national reputation, together with the Magazine and Household Pages in four colors, comprise the most attractive color section of any Southern Sunday Newspaper.

been put in prison, as though he were relieved of a burden by his confession.

Although they will not commit themselves, both Chief Lanford and Chief Frank's arrest. He was discovered by Foreman E. F. Holloway while washing a shirt on the second floor of the factory structure. He was turned over to Detectives Coker and McGill, who rushed from police headquarters in answer to a telephone call from the foreman.

Said He Could Not Write.

He strongly denied until a week ago all knowledge of the crime. He even declared he was unable to write. It was Sunday, the week ago, that Detective Scott discovered the negro's ability to write. He was carried to the office of Chief Lanford and forced to produce specimens of his script.

Last Saturday he admitted having written the notes found beside the body. He stated, however, that they were written on Friday, the day preceding the murder. A day or so following he amended the rst confession, admitting to detectives that the notes had been written on the afternoon of Mary Phagan's death—even an hour after her disappearance.

Conley is a young negro, black and chunky, with an honest face. He is apparently in the twenties, and has been a laborer by profession. He is married, his wife visiting him daily at police headquarters. He had been in the employ of the pencil factory for several years.

He is said to have admitted last night that immediately following the carrying of Mary Phagan's body to the basement, he returned hurriedly to the first floor, emerging through the Forsyth street entrance, leaving Frank in the building. Whether or not he told of the broken lock on the back door of the cellar is not known.

Bit by bit the detectives have been worming from him his startling confession. Thursday afternoon, it is said, he was willing to tell all and once started, on his narrative, continued through to the end with but little questioning to urge him onward.

It was stated by C. W. Tobie, the Burns agent, shortly before his departure from Atlanta, that his chief, the famous William J. Burns, will personally investigate the Phagan case. The Burns headquarters, in New York, were wired by The Constitution to verify the report. No reply has yet been received.

Factory Officials Accuse Him.

Three officials of the National Pencil company—Herbert G. Schiff, head bookkeeper, M. B. Darley, assistant superintendent, and S. F. Holloway, general foreman—have expressed their theory of the negro sweeper's guilt. Holloway was the man who telephoned police headquarters to have Conley arrested when he discovered the negro washing a shirt on the second floor of the factory building.

They state that the negro's admission of having written the notes is proof itself of his guilt, and that his story to the effect that they were dictated by Frank is absurd in every respect. Conley's penchant for falsehoods, as shown in his two affidavits—both contradictory—is also offered as evidence of his guilt. Conley's statement that he was in the factory for several hours on the day of the tragedy shows strongly against him, they say.

Also, his denial of ability to write when first placed under arrest, and his subsequent display of ability to write, are brought out in the pencil factory officials' theory of his guilt. Detective Harry Scott asserts, in regard to this, that Conley's story is that he withheld his confession on account of anticipation of a large sum of money jail, declining emphatically to discuss any angle of the mystery.

Conley was arrested, it will be remembered, on the same afternoon of

he says he expected from Frank or Frank's friends.

Final Proof, says Lanford.

Chief Lanford last night announced Thursday that they considered the negro's final affidavit proof conclusive of the suspected superintendent's guilt, and that they seemingly ready to place the case on trial at any date set by the superior court, before which it will be tried some time during the latter part of next month.

They admit being puzzled, however, by certain discrepancies in matters of time, as explained in the negro's second affidavit, and which are contradicted by witnesses who testified before the coroner's jury. They expect, though, to clear up this condition by the cross-examination under which they placed the negro last night.

stances to the finance sub-committee, and it is to be generally rearranged and many items are to be changed, the duties in most cases to be increased from the Underwood rates.

Again today the Williams sub-committee was at work on the income tax section of the bill and a comprehensive brief, supplementing his oral testimony, was filed by Darwin P. Kingsley, president of the New York Life Insurance company, opposing the taxing of mutual life insurance companies.

Mr. Kingsley revealed a point hitherto not discussed, that "the bill entirely ignores the fundamental provision which says that incomes under $4,000 shall not be taxed."

"Not 10 per cent of the policyholders in co-operative or mutual companies have incomes over $4,000," Mr. Kingsley asserted. "Yet this bill proceeds to tax a man, however small his income, merely because he insures his life."

Declaring that there are no profits in mutual life insurance companies, and that they should be exempted from the income tax, just as mutual fire companies and other organizations will be, Mr. Kingsley pointed out that they state and federal governments life insurance companies and their members already were taxed $22,500,000 annually, $1,500,000 being the corporation tax, which is to be re-enacted in this bill.

"As it lies before the senate," he added, "the bill taxes what are mistakenly called 'dividends' paid to members of mutual compales. It levies the tax, although our own federal government has declared that such returns under the corporation tax need in the abatement of future premiums are not 'dividends.' To tax them is to levy a tax on a tax, to punish individuals for effectually doing the very thing the state is preparing to do when it levies a tax."

Representative Hull, of Tennessee, author of the income tax, has urged the finance committee to be careful in revising the section lest they leave any loophole through which holding companies might evade the tax.

TALLULAH FALLS SUIT WON BY POWER CO.

ered Thursday morning the entire history of the famous Tallulah Falls controversy, charging Mrs. Helen Longstreet and the Tallulah Falls Conservation association with malicious "founding" of the Georgia Railway and Power company.

"Where is Mrs. Longstreet?" he thundered at the height of his address. "She's deserted at the very crisis of the suit. She doesn't want this case tried. She wants it postponed and dragged out so that it might be held as a terror over the head of the power company."

Of the whole committee of 13 originally appointed to represent the association, all but two have fallen by the wayside, and one of those two Attorney Wimbish opened his mouth in the case since he's been here.

"I tell you this is a malicious suit, that hasn't the slightest foundation in fact, and Judge Logan E. Bleckley would turn in his grave if he thought that a jury of his fellow countrymen of north Georgia would take away the land bought by honest people and granted by the state of Georgia."

Impassioned Plea by Ellis.

Mr. Dean was followed by R. C. Ellis, member of the legislature from Tifton, who, in an impassioned speech, pleaded for saving Tallulah Falls.

Luther Z. Rosser spoke for an hour and a half, giving one of his characteristic arguments, to the great humor of the assembled courtroom. Charles T. Hopkins also spoke in argument for the company.

Attorney General Felder's final argument was a gem of oratory. He appealed to the jury of north Georgia countrymen to go to the very bottom of the question of the land grants and render justice. He made no attempt at stirring up the prejudice of the jury and appealed solely for a plain consideration of the important legal points involved.

LAMAR AND COBB ADDRESS LAWYERS

Eloquent Speeches Mark the Sessions of Annual Meeting of State Bar Association at Warm Springs.

Warm Springs, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—Mr. Justice Joseph R. Lamar, of the United States supreme court, delivered the principal address at the annual meeting of the Georgia Bar association last night before over 200 lawyers who had come from all parts of the state to attend the three-day session in Warm Springs, Ga.

He spoke on "The History of the Organization of the Supreme Court, emphasizing the early history of Georgia law and its development and influence on present existing laws, a subject which he conversay interested him. Justice Lamar, himself a Georgian, has written several papers on this subject, which at various times have been presented before the Georgia Bar association.

"Georgia's Contribution to Law Reform" was one of the earlier papers which he referred, showing that Georgia had the first code, and was the first state in the union to get rid of England's old forms of pleadings in practice.

His investigation of Georgia's part in giving to the country its present system of jurisprudence was stressed as the basis for his talk on Monday night. "I am a Georgia lawyer, talking to Georgia lawyers on a Georgia subject," he said.

Goes Back to Colonial Days.

Reciting the recent discovery in London of a number of hitherto unpublished records which showed the litigation between Georgia and South Carolina, Mr. Justice Lamar traced Georgia's interstate commerce back to the days when it was intercolonial commerce. In that ancient Georgia rose against South Carolina, William Murray, afterwards the great Lord Mansfield, was the attorney for Georgia, and John Wesley, founder of the Methodist church, was a witness at the trial. He has also found unpublished documents showing the very beginning of courts in Georgia. These ancient writings give the names of the court, the attorneys and the jury.

On July 1, 1732, the first courts for the orderly administration of justice were organized in Georgia, a jury of citizens was impanelled, and a case was tried. For many years thereafter, July 7 was celebrated as the anniversary of "court day," being then the only civil holiday in the colonies, and serving as a combination of our July 4, February 22 and Thanksgiving day.

With this as a beginning, Justice Lamar traced the gradual unfolding and development of our Georgia law and showed its influence on the present; how what was harmful had been eliminated, and only that tested by time and experience retained.

Received With Enthusiasm.

The address of Justice Lamar was a masterpiece, and was received with great enthusiasm by the bar association.

Hon. Hamilton McWhorter, of Athens, spoke against the recall of judges, and Alex Smith, who was in Tallulah, had a paper read in which he urged some action regarding the admission of lawyers from other states to practice in Georgia courts. He pointed out that the present code is confused and contradictory between the legislative committee of the bar association and the next legislature to establish the requirements of lawyers who seek to practice in Georgia.

A number of papers and routine business took up the afternoon session on Thursday.

Judge Cobb's Address.

In an inspiring conservative address on "Reverence and Relevancy," Judge Andrew J. Cobb addressed the Bar association this morning. In brief, he said:

"We are living in an irreverent age. We are also living in an age that is irrelevant. Men who have lost the sense of reverence, or willfully disregard its promptings, challenge the attention of the public and pose as the leaders of thought. Facts which are immaterial, which have no real protective force, are adroitly used as reasons for determination of issues and in favor of the side which should not prevail. Reason, experience and the better impulses seem to be at a discount, and prejudice and the lower instincts are appealed to to furnish the basis for action.

TURKEY AND BALKANS SIGN TREATY TODAY

London, May 29.—The treaty of peace between the Balkan allies and Turkey, which will be known as the peace of London, will be signed at noon tomorrow at St. James palace, unless some unexpected hitch occurs. Servia has followed Greece in reluctant orders to her delegates to sign. Turkey and Bulgaria indicated their willingness some time ago, and it is assumed Montenegro will sign.

Greece held out for the addition of a protocol until the last moment, when she was assured by Turkey that all conventions prevailing before the war would resume their effectiveness and an opportunity was given to discuss points at issue.

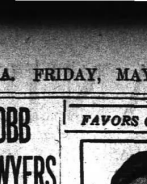
Bulgaria and Turkey refused absolutely to have anything to do with a protocol, the former regarding it as too likely to open fresh and undesirable discussions, the latter as betraying a lack of deference to the powers.

While the peace of London may end the war in Turkey, it may be the signal for strife among the allies. The speech of the Servian premier in the parliament at Belgrade Wednesday, when he explained that Servia desired a modification of the treaty with Bulgaria regarding the division of territory, has increased irritation to such an extent that it is not likely now that his meeting with Premier Suchoff, of Bulgaria, on the frontier will take place.

All efforts of Russia to bring about peace between Bulgaria and Servia apparently have failed and the worst is feared. Meanwhile the allies are throwing enormous bodies of troops into Macedonia to occupy disputed territory.

Relations between Bulgaria and Greece still are extremely strained. The Bulgars thus far have refused to create a neutral zone at Salonikl, where the Greek premier, M. Venizelos, is waiting to meet the Bulgarian General Ivanoff. This conference is expected to check the Bulgar militarists, who apparently are acting in defiance of the home government.

FAVORS CREMATORY.



ALDERMAN A. H. VAN DYKE.

Who is now one of the most ardent supporters of plan to purchase new crematory.

ATLANTA TO BUY CREMATORY NOW

to pay $1,000 each to pay for the plant.

Alderman Arthur H. Van Dyke, who also supported Mayor Woodward in his numerous clashes with council over the crematory contract, says that he will vote for the payment of the $276,000 this year, even at the sacrifice of every other project under consideration.

Within the next fifteen days the first unit, which will have a capacity of seventy-five bodies, will be complete and ready to burn garbage. P. D. Canham, superintendent in charge of the construction of the plant for the Destructor company, declared Thursday that he has been selecting his crew to operate the plant for the first few weeks.

W. E. Dowd, Jr., sales manager of the New York Destructor company, will reach Atlanta from Savannah Saturday night. He is just closing a contract for a small plant in that city.

Mayor Woodward believes that the city can negotiate with Manager Dowd for the purchase of the plant outright on a business basis. He said Thursday that he was of the opinion that the city could get the plant on a cash basis for about $40,000 less than the contract price.

"It has never been denied that the company offered local bankers $35,000 to finance the contract," says the mayor. "If that is correct, it is safe to assume that the money was to come out of the profits. I imagine that the Destructor company would be willing now to knock off that amount in view of the fact that the outright purchase will mean cash."

Council Opposed to Mayor.

Council is solidly lined up against Mayor Woodward, but it is admitted that he is the factor in the fight. A resolution reported by the finance committee urging council to appropriate $276,000 this year to pay for the plant will not accelerate matters. It could be voted on and adopted by the general council, but without the approval of the mayor it would be delayed two weeks by his veto. On the other hand, Mayor Woodward can refuse to sign the warrants, file a mandamus, and tie the matter up in the supreme court. However, the plant can be completed in that time, but no provision for the payment would be at hand.

"Atlanta is getting the finest plant in the United States for the money," said Alderman Ed Byrd. "There has been no criticism of the material nor the workmanship. It is worth every cent of the money asked for in the contract."

Attorney Evins intimated strongly that he did not believe the city could purchase the plant for less than the contract price. He explained, however, that he was not authorized to discuss that phase of the question.

Should Mayor Woodward defeat the aim of council to pass up the money to pay for the plant this year, it is still within the province of council to impose a six levy of one-fifth of one per cent for an emergency. This would give the city $125,000 this year, and, added to the $125,000 already provided for in the budget, will make the total $250,000. The rest could be supplied from the revenue for the year without interfering with special projects.

City Attorney James L. Mayson says the only sure way for council to get the plant is to submit the old contract to a vote of the people. Under the charter it requires two-thirds of the registered voters to pass it.

Mayor Woodward also favors this plan. He says that if the people pass on the contract he will pay the money, even though it be five million dollars.

Candler Makes Statement.

Alderman John S. Candler, once a member of the supreme court, who stubbornly resisted Mayor Woodward's fight, made the following statement Thursday:

"I have no doubt but that there is no legal way whereby the council can protect the health of the citizens. I consider the public health the most important of all questions in the city government, and the most important health question is to dispose of garbage. The best way to dispose of garbage, and the only possible way for Atlanta to dispose of it now, is by completing the Destructor company's plant. If it becomes necessary the council should stop all other public work and hasten the completion of the plant this year. Health is far more important than widening streets or building new school houses.

"As to the plant, it is worth every dollar of the $276,000 which the city proposes to pay for it. I have examined it carefully several times myself, and have the opinion of engineers, both those employed by the city and others whose opinion I have taken occasion to obtain. They all agree that the plant is a magnificent piece of work, worth what the city proposes to pay.

"I am so confident of this that I am willing to trust my conviction to any taxpayer who is honest and unprejudiced who will go and see the plant for himself.

"If we should have an epidemic here this summer from rotting garbage, it would hurt the city and hurt it bad. And I would not be surprised to see such an epidemic, if we make no provision to properly dispose of garbage."

Councilman Claude L. Ashley, one of the mayor's supporters in the early stages of the crematory struggle, made the following comment:

"If Mayor Woodward could only hear the complaints that are being made to me I think he would change his mind. The people are kicking about the dump piles scattered throughout the city. There is real danger of sickness, and I for one would much rather pay ten times the cost of the crematory than to have one person taken ill because of bad conditions.

"As chairman of the sanitary committee I suppose more complaints have been made to me than to anyone else except the health officers. I will agree to be one of fifty citizens to make up a fund to purchase the plant, and will take a chance on the city paying me back in years to come. Atlanta cannot afford to hazard the health of its people now. We have just got to have the crematory, and politics should not enter into he proposition."

Must Have It, Says Van Dyke.

Alderman A. H. Van Dyke, one of those who most actively opposed the letting down of the old crematory, and who was lined up with the mayor against the new one, has now changed his position and says that since the work is almost been completed there is but one thing for the city to do, and that is, to take over the crematory at once and put it to work before the summer sets in.

"It is not a question as to how it can be done," said Alderman Van Dyke yesterday. "It is simply a question of the city doing the only sensible and safe thing that is left for it to do. Atlanta never yet faced a crisis without some way being found to meet it, and it seems to me that the way now is to sidetrack everything else and meet the supreme court decision by paying for the crematory out of the city funds that will be collected this year even if we have to sidetrack everything else to do it.

"I speak not only as a member of council, but as a physician, and I wish to say that the health of the city of Atlanta is the first and foremost consideration, and I would have my right arm withered before I would place myself in a position where I could be held responsible for the death of one single person—and I say solemnly, as a physician, that unless this crematory is put to work as soon as possible the penalty of such deaths this summer is going to be put on somebody's head. I have heretofore aligned with the better side in this matter, but we were whipped in a fair fight, and the work has now proceeded practically to completion. The crematory is almost ready for operation, and it was built on the good faith of the city. I shall vote to give it the right-of-way over everything else, so that the city may have the crematory this year without any hangover for another council. This will meet the decision of the supreme court, and I, for one, am willing to do my duty as an official and as a citizen."

Chairman Humphrey, of the finance committee, has called a meeting for Friday morning.

The matter of offering a resolution to council will be discussed then.

Chairman Humphrey is in favor of the city buying the plant outright and paying for it this year. The city has something like $400,000 in reserve, or will have it at the end of the year, through the judicious disbursement of the city funds by the committee.

ALSTON CHANCELLOR OF ATLANTA DIOCESE

Council Adjourns at Athens After 12-Hour Session—Change of Name Tabled.

Athens, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—The council of the diocese of Atlanta adjourned tonight at 1 o'clock after twelve hours of work.

Officers were elected as follows:

Robert T. Alston, of Atlanta, chancellor; George C. Stowers, of Atlanta; registrar; E. R. Steson, of Macon, treasurer; Rev. John D. Wing, Atlanta, secretary.

The movement for the establishment of a girls' school in the diocese was indorsed and a committee appointed to work with a committee from the diocese of Georgia in carrying out this project.

A resolution was adopted joining with the order in Atlanta in inviting the 1914 national convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew to meet in Atlanta.

Change of Name Tabled.

In the mooted question of taking a stand on the proposed change of the name of the church from the "Protestant Episcopal church" to the "Catholic Church of America," the report of the special committee was adopted, that report being noncommittal, except to advise no change at this time.

Later the council reconsidered and decided to lay the whole matter on the table. Nothing, therefore, was done in this matter by the diocese of Atlanta.

A committee of five was named to select ten others and devise plans for raising an endowment of $75,000 for the episcopate.

Delegates Named.

Delegates and alternates were named as follows: Rev. Wilmer and Pise, of Atlanta; Bunting, of Marietta, and Beatty, of Athens. Lay delegates: Messrs. Nickerson, of Athens; Z. D. Perry, Columbus; C. E. Pollard, Atlanta; R. D. Lawrence, Marietta; D. B. Harrell, Macon.

The next meeting of the council will be with the Church of the Incarnation, Atlanta.

Griffin; custodian united offerings, Mrs. Mallory Taylor, Macon; secretary special club, Miss Minnie Harper, Atlanta; president junior auxiliary, Miss Mary Pearson, Macon; secretary Babis band, Mrs. Little, Marietta.

These were chosen to attend the triennial meeting in New York: Mrs. Nellie Black, Atlanta; Mrs. Pettigrew, Atlanta; Miss Woodberry, Atlanta, and Mrs. Taylor and Miss Pearson, of Macon.

$14,000 Balance.

Reports showed $14,000 more than all the apportionments.

Mrs. Woodberry presided over the sessions of the women's auxiliary in place of Mrs. LeConte Furman, of Macon.

The bishop, Miss Woodberry, Rev. Thomas Duck and others addressed the auxiliary meeting. Miss Mary Pearson, of Macon, gave an interesting account of the meeting in New York. Mrs. Peters Black, of Atlanta, spoke inspiringly on the forward movement in the far east; Mrs. Mallory Taylor addressed the meeting on "United Offering," and this afternoon Rev. Mr. Wheat, Griffin, spoke on "Gift of Self," and Mrs. Frank D. Holland, of Atlanta, on "The Church's Work Among the Negroes." Parish reports from Mrs. Shaw, of Macon; Mrs. Lee, of Macon; Mrs. Miles, of Elberton; Mrs. Duck, of Toccoa; Mrs. Geissler, of Greensboro, and Miss Sarah White, of Tallulah Falls, and Miss Prince, of Athens, were good, and touching tributes were paid to the late Mrs. H. C. White, a president of the diocesan organization among the women of the church.

ASTOR HOUSE CLOSES ITS HISTORIC CAREER

New York, May 29.—The Astor house formally closed its historic career of seventy-seven years tonight with a jollification of transients and traditionloving New Yorkers.

A caucus of aged guests, grown gray on the premises, berated fate for taking the roof from over their heads, and spoke hopefully of a petition to Vincent Astor, pleading that the building be not razed. They had secured 4 000 signatures since noon. The city recently purchased an easement on one-half the site for subway construction.

An impressive roster of famous men has enjoyed the old landmark's hospitality, from Daniel Webster and civil war heroes and statesmen, down to modern notables.

The six-story building was completed in 1836 by the first John Jacob Astor, at a cost of about $325,000, of which $150,000 represented the value of the land. Illustrating the marvelous realty appreciation of the neighborhood the present value of the site for rebuilding purposes is estimated at more than $2,500,000.

All in The Constitution today, of course. And heaps more, fine, new goods at prices that you can't resist. Read on.

You can get lots of clothes "made-to-measure" at the price of good ready clothes; or even at less; there are plenty of so-called "custom tailors" who will "make to measure" a suit at $15, $18, $20, $25. If you know anything about making clothes you know it can't be done, if you are to get anything like respectable quality.

If your clothes are bought solely on the basis of price, without reference to intrinsic values in fabrics, linings, tailoring, we're not "in it" with these "custom tailors;" go your way in peace.

We find, however, a growing sense among intelligent men, of the fact that there's no magic in clothes-making that will put quality-value into poor materials and cheap workmanship. They're coming to see that good materials and high-class tailoring are best for them; and that the only way to get them is to pay the price.

That's why we say so much about $25 for a suit; it's price enough to get really good clothes.

THOUSANDS CHEER AS DIXIE'S HEROES MARCH ONCE MORE

Streets of Chattanooga Traversed by Remnant of Great Army of 600,000, Now Aged and Gray.

VETERANS MOUNTED ON U. S. ARMY HORSES

Mounted Cavalry Corps of Gen. Forrest Forms Inspiring and Impressive Feature of the Parade.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 29.—With flags furled and kits packed, many survivors of the southern army who attended the twenty-third annual confederate veterans' reunion here departed for their homes tonight.

Death stalked in the midst of the cheering throng which today participated in the impressive veterans' parade. Three aged soldiers who came to renew campaign friendships made during the war between teh states responded for the last time to their regimental calls.

Robert Nolen, a veteran from Houston, Texas, fell down the steps of the city auditorium and sustained a broken neck.

B. F. Moore, of Fuquc, Texas, who was injured in a fall yesterday, died at a local infirmary today. G. W. Mullens, ordeal of today's march but at a late hour after the veterans' parade was ended and dropped dead. Several veterans were exhausted by the trying of Lindale, Ga., entered a restaurant four no additional deaths had been reported.

Scenes tonight at the railroad stations brought tears to the eyes of thousands of visitors who were returning to their homes after attending the reunion. Aged soldiers, when parting, raped each other in warm embraces and uttered fervent prayers that they would meet again at the next reunion. Many were so feeble that they could scarcely clamber aboard the trains, but willing hands were ready to assist them.

Climax Comes in Parade.

The climax of the reunion came today when several thousand veterans marched and rode through the city streets in their annual parade, accompanied by sponsors, and escorted by national guardsmen from several states.

Scarcely a person of the many thousand who witnessed the striking spectacle tonight was able to speak above a whisper so vociferous were the cheers accorded the gray-haired soldiers.

General Bennett H. Young, of Louisville, Ky., commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, led the parade on a prancing horse from his native state. Upon reaching his headquarters he dismounted, and, standing bareheaded in the sunshine, watched the survivors of the confederate army pass by. Members of General Young's staff, Governor Hooper, of Tennessee; Miss Kate Daffan, of Austin, Texas, sponsor for the south, and others were guests of General Young on the reviewing stand.

A picturesque feature of the parade was the presence of several negro "uncles" who followed their masters through the war between the states. A number of these carried live chickens, illustrative of the manner in which they foraged when food was scarce during the fierce campaigns. They were heartily cheered by spectators and acknowledged the greetings with unique bows peculiar to the ante-bellum negro.

This afternoon the "Pied Piper of Hamelin" was presented in a local park by several hundred school children in honor of the veterans.

Government Horses Furnished.

In an official memorial to the United Confederate Veterans tonight, General Young calls attention to the significance attached to the furnishing of government horses to the veterans for today's parade. The memorial in part follows:

"Tents and cots have been tendered by the United States government, but never before have the confederate veterans been supplied with government horses for their annual parade. This act of the government toward the people of Chattanooga and toward the veterans is most highly appreciated, surely this indicates that all the bitter feeling of the war has passed away. In no other country in the world, save this great republic, has such a thing even been possible. It speaks volumes for the spirit that dominates the greatest republic of the world. It shows that in fifty years the passion and passaze of the most extended civil war in history has been replaced by a comradeship which is superior to any peace monument."

Tonight reunion week was closed with a grand ball, tendered to the convention and confederate veterans who met simultaneously with the United Confederate Veterans.

ONE YEAR SENTENCE GIVEN BEDINGFIELD

Macon Man Found Guilty of "Shooting at Another"—Notice of Appeal Given.

Macon, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—This afternoon Judge H. A. Mathews, of the Bibb superior court, sentenced Mallary Bedingfield, found guilty of "shooting at another," to one year in the penitentiary. Bedingfield had no comment to make on the sentence, but seemed stunned by the extent of the punishment which had been meted out to him. Notice of an appeal has been given, and Bedingfield has been released under bond of $500, pending the outcome.

Bedingfield, who is a mill supply agent, was tried yesterday for the shooting last fall of F. A. Gutenberger, the local music dealer, who he alleges he mistook for a burglar prowling about the back of his premises on Napier avenue. The jury was out five hours and then returned a verdict of guilty of shooting at another, with a recommendation for extreme mercy from the court. This morning the jury again petitioned the court for extreme mercy, and this afternoon Judge Mathews imposed the sentence of one year.

Many well known business men appeared in court to speak a good word for Bedingfield and considerable stress was laid on the fact that he has a wife and a large family of daughters, who will be left without means of support.

Mr. Guttenberger, the victim of the shooting, has fully recovered, and with his wife, sat with the solicitor general during the trial of the case.

ROME LOCKER CLUBS TO CARRY FIGHT UP

Appeal Will Be Made Against Permanent Restraining Order Granted by Judge Wright.

Rome, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—Judge Moses Wright has made permanent a temporary restraining order granted on May 17, enjoining the Hill City club from operating its locker system. The petition for injunction was filed by Graham Wright, a young lawyer, who was associated with his father, Seaborn Wright, in representing C. L. Wilkerson, a prominent member of the Law and Order league, which has waged a relentless war for several years against locker clubs in Rome.

Officials of the Hill City club state that they will appeal the decision the higher courts. They assert that they have obeyed the letter as well as the spirit of the law. The question involved is a legal one, there being no dispute as to facts and the decision will probably depend upon whether or not it is legal for club members to pay a fee for service.

FOR DEATH OF BANKER LONG GOES ON TRIAL

Trial of South Carolina Legislator Is Attracting Much Attention.

Augusta, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—The trial of Hon. Hugh Long, member of the South Carolina general assembly, indicted for the murder of Pickens N. Gunter, of Wagener, last fall, with Hayes Gunter as an accessory, will mark the June term of the general session court for Aiken county, South Carolina which convenes June 2, Judge Ernest Gary presiding, according to a dispatch received from Aiken last night.

While engaged in a personal difficulty with Mr. Gunter, Long drew a revolver and fired several shots and inflicted wounds which resulted in the death of the banker. The trouble is said to have been the result of a political feud. Feeling ran high immediately after the shooting and Long was forced to flee from an angry mob, seemingly bent upon summary punishment. Long is now at liberty under a $5,000 bond. He was formally arraigned during the trial of the Beach case last February but his case was continued.

The principal defendant in the trial is a prominent man politically in his state and was in the chair of the house of representatives last winter.

GOES TO WUMAN'S AID AND MEETS HIS DEATH

Lawrence Crone Held for Killing of Tom Blaton—Midnight Ride to Jail.

Tallulah Falls, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—After eluding a mob of over 75 angry men, a deputy sheriff rushed in an automobile from Tallulah Falls Lodge to Clarkesville in a midnight ride last night with Lawrence Crone, charged with the murder of Tom Blaton, in order to get him safe in the Habersham county jail.

"Bud" Crone, as he is known in this section, is declared by several eyewitnesses to have murdered Blaton in cold blood, after the latter had remonstrated with Crone for beating a woman. This murder occurred near the Tallulah Lodge railroad depot last night.

Crone is declared to have been drunk. The woman with him, Mrs. Katy Algear, suddenly began to scream and several men ran up the road towards the couple. Blaton merely held out a restraining hand, it is said, without touch them, when Crone is declared to have shot at him.

Blaton, who is said to have come from Atlanta several months, ago, was a steel worker on the power house construction work, going on here, and was popular with the men. A mob began to gather very quickly and Crone was easily captured, after the shooting.

The deputy sheriff feared trouble from the fast growing crowd so he communicated with the officials of the power company and secured their automobile which sped the party away before the mob had an opportunity to use violence.

Crone is a man about 35 years of age, a native of Rabun county, near Collier, Ga. He is now held in Clarkesville jail.

The body of Blaton was taken away on the train this afternoon by his nephew, Joe Blaton, of Atlanta.

HUFF VERDICT REACHES MACON THIS MORNING

Opinion of Judge Grubb Mailed From Birmingham Thursday Afternoon.

Macon, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—Word came from Birmingham today that Judge W. I. Grubb, of the United States district court, who presided here last week in the trial of Colonel W. A. Huff, charged with contempt of court, had mailed his opinion to the clerk of the court at Macon.

The opinion will reach Macon at 10:45 o'clock in the morning, but whether or not it will be opened is not known, owing to the fact that tomorrow is a legal holiday.

Colonel Huff was arrested for contempt of court in connection with letters he wrote and had delivered to Judge Emory Speer, of the southern district of Georgia, in which the judicial character of Judge Speer was attacked with reference to his handling of the Huff equity case.

In his order, Judge Grubb may either find Colonel Huff guilty and suspend sentence until he can come here at some later date to impose the penalty, or he can find him not guilty and direct his discharge. Which of these he will do, of course, will not be known until the order is opened in court.

Allaville Man Near Death As Result of Having Drawn Gasoline Into His Lungs

Ellaville, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—J. B. Williamson, a prominent merchant of this place, is lying at his home at the point of death, from pneumonia, brought on by his having accidentally sucked gasoline into his lungs a few days ago.

Williamson had driven in his automobile to a funeral, which took place about four miles from this place. When endeavored to crank up his car to return to Ellaville, he discovered that his gasoline was exhausted. He accordingly attempted syphon enough gasoline from another car to enable him to get back to town.

While sucking the gasoline through a rubber tube, the fumes caused him to sneeze, and his lungs were filled with gasoline. The strangulation that followed was so violent as to cause unconsciousness.

He was rushed to Ellaville in an automobile and physicians called. The next day pneumoni developed, the course of the disease being marked by profuse and frequent hemorages from the lungs.

At a late hour tonight the physicians announced a slight improvement in Williamson's condition, and it is now thought that he will recover.

ELDER JAP STATESMEN READ AMERICA'S REPLY

Tokio, May 29.—Because of the growing attacks by the opposition, the Japanese government today took the elder statesmen and other leaders, including Prince Taro Katsura, former premier, into its confidence on the California question, and submitted to them the text of America's reply to Japan's protest against the California alien land ownership legislation.

The text of the reply sent by Washington emphasizes that the question at issue is an economic and not a political one. It points out that the state of California insists that there has been no violation of the American-Japanese treaty.

After lengthily dwelling on the friendship of the United States for Japan, the reply concludes that the courts of law are open, and expresses the hope that the question may be solved in a manner satisfactory to Japan.

TO DISPOSE OF STOCK OF SOUTHERN PACIFIC

Two Alternate Plans Approved by Union Pacific Board and Put Up to Court.

New York, May 29.—Two alternate plans for disposition of the $126,650,000 Southern Pacific stock owned by Union Pacific were approved by the Union Pacific board today. The first contemplates selling the stock to highest bidders after the manner of municipal bonds, a minimum bid to be hereafter designated; the second contemplates placing the stock with a trustee, without voting power to be later distributed upon affidavit that the owners possess no Union Pacific stock.

Both plans will be submitted to the court for approval, with the request that the company be permitted to elect which it will adopt. Failing court approval, the Union Pacific company will ask that the stock be placed in the hands of a receiver, to be named by the court.

After the publication of this alternative plan, Union Pacific stock broke from 150¾ to 147⅝, but speedily rallied to 149¼. Southern Pacific declined 2 points to 95, and rallied a point.

A statement issued by Chairman Lovett, of the Union Pacific executive committee, after the directors' meeting, outlined the plan as follows:

1. We propose to offer the Southern Pacific stock held by the Union Pacific for public subscription in a way similar to that in which New York city bonds are offered, namely, to invite bids at such prices and for such amounts of stock as the bidder may desire, with a minimum price to be hereafter determined, under which no stock will be accepted without such restrictions as the court may prescribe, respecting the amount of stock to be allotted to Union Pacific holders. Provision is to be made for underwriting the offer in order to insure its success.

"2. As an alternative, we propose to deposit the stock in the hands of some bank or trust company, as trustee, which trustee shall register against the issue of its beneficial certificates therefor, such certificates having no voting power, but entitling the holder to all dividends and being exchangeable for the stock itself upon the execution by the holder of an affidavit that he is not the owner of any Union Pacific stock. As this would result in desfranchisement of the stock while held by the trustee, and as long as held by any Union Pacific shareholders. It is proposed that in this case, the certificates should be offered to the shareholders of the Union Pacific alone, at such price as the board of directors may hereafter determine, and that if at the time deemed necessary, the offer would be underwritten.

Washington, May 29.—Attorny General McReynolds today said he had not seen the plans for the dissolution of the Union Pacific merger and was not prepared to comment upon them.

If the plans announced in New York today do not constitute the separation of the Southern Pacific and Central Pacific, the attorney general is expected to bring suit under the Sherman law to accomplish that end. This will be dealt with apart from the dissolution of the Union Pacific merger.

CARRANZA DEMANDS REMOVAL OF CONSUL

Eagle Pass, Texas, May 29.—The principal allegation against United States Consul Luther T. Ellsworth at Piedras Negras, contained in the message sent to the state department yesterday by Governor Carranza, demanding Mr. Ellsworth's removal, was "he openly sympathizes with our enemies," it was learned today. This attitude of the telegram declared, brings "to us all kinds of trouble." It is also claimed that the constitutionalists complaint of Consul Ellsworth's report to Washington.

Carranza headquarters also alleged today that Mexican Consul Brave, at Eagle Pass, is recruiting a force there to raid Piedras Negras, and they contend the United States government should pay as much attention to this as it does to the shipment of arms to the insurgents.

A COSTLY VICTORY.

The city's health takes right of way over every other conceivable consideration. That must be the first thought of the authorities and the people of Atlanta, following the smashing supreme court decision adversing the crematory contract. Within less than a month the first unit of the crematory would have been completed and performing its function in standing between Atlanta and death and disease. The court's decision declares the contract illegal. Every faction, every interest in Atlanta should at once submerge differences and find a remedy for the emergency of the moment. After that, thought may be taken for the future.

Those who carried the question of the legality to court have won a "victory," but it is likely to prove the most costly and critical in the history of the city. The court cannot be condemned. It was powerless, under the binding technicalities of the law and constitution, to decide otherwise. But the plan under which Atlanta has, for many years, installed public improvements of imperative nature, has been permanently riddled. But heretofore no one has challenged the plan because of the universal recognition that it offered, under the present system, the one way in which improvements of a certain nature could be made possible. The effect of the decision reiterates with sledge hammer emphasis the contention of The Constitution that it is childish folly to expect Atlanta's current income to meet current maintenance and provide also for improvements.

If merely money were involved in the decision, the situation would not be so critical; the upsetting of the city's moral obligation would be bad, but even that not insurmountable. The tragedy of the thing is that Atlanta's chief defense against disease and death has been struck down on the threshold of summer.

The ultimate significance of the decision is that the supreme court has put squarely up to Atlanta the burden of finding some legal way for insuring the public improvements that are pressing every now, and that will crowd even more demandingly with the city's growth. The court has decided that the method whereby the city constructed the Auditorium; whereby the Inman pump in a great emergency, was secured; whereby the city hall was bought from the government; whereby the great city bridges were built; whereby Piedmont park was secured —and many other improvements of like portent—is illegal. It is fortunate that they are all paid for and the titles clear. Only the crematory is involved in the present crisis.

The principle laid down by the supreme court affects not only Atlanta, but as well every city in Georgia. It is, perhaps, especially applicable to this municipality, since Atlanta has not in the past hesitated to pledge its good faith when the alternative was municipal paralysis or municipal lost opportunity. The moral obligation that descended from council to council was not legally binding; it could have been repudiated at will. But successive councils knew the city's sentiment and never hesitated each one to appropriate its particular prorata share toward the liquidation of such obligation which, as the sole recourse in the premises, stood for legal indebtedness.

It is not strange that Atlanta was driven to an extra-legal method to keep its head above water, municipally-speaking. With about the lowest tax rate of any city in its class in America, we have been pursuing the childish policy of trying to pay for upkeep and for the needs of growth out of income. The moral obligation phase has saved Atlanta and kept it reasonably up to date. That destroyed, we are absolutely forced to other measures, and, as The Constitution sees it, the first and inevitable recourse is a bond issue sufficient to catch up with present delinquencies, followed by a revised system to prevent the recurrence of these delinquencies.

Until Atlanta finds a way other than the now prohibited moral obligation way, the city's program of imperative improvements is wholly at the mercy of the whims or caprices of any one of her 175,000 population. The court, powerless in the premises, has placed in the hands of any one obstructor a sure weapon against the moral obligation method.

The city faces a crisis. Its welfare in every department is menaced until a solution is found.

GRAPE JUICE'S VINDICATION.

One is astounded by the possibilities growing out of the Colonel's libel suit against the lshpeming editor. Already it is reported that some of the unkind radicals in Washington have proposed a "publicity for drinkers" bill as applied to statesmen, to supplement the one that already requires publicity for campaign expenses. In other words, the man in public life would be required to keep a scrupulous record of every libation absorbed during the course of the year. If he took only a solitary mint-julep on the hottest day of the 365, he would be compelled to tot it up on the account sheet. If he lingered too long at the banquet board the situation would become complicated. For arithmetical ability might become twisted along with speech, and how in the world could he be expected to make a competent record under these conditions? He would have to throw himself on the mercy of some friend, and suppose that friend had secret designs on the office of the bibulous one!

How would it look to have the newspapers publish, at the end of each year, the exact quantity of liquid refreshment consumed by every man in public life, from the president's chef on up or down? Surely, such a list would contain queer revelations. And when it came to inebriety, what would be the test? In other words, when is a man drunk? The old formula ran to the effect that when the suspect could safely navigate the polysyllable word "chrysanthemum" no man might accuse him. The sprightly New York World submits the following searching test:

"He is not drunk who from the floor
Can rise and drink and ask for more;
But he is drunk who prostrate lies,
Without the strength to drink or rise."

Rather crude, on the whole. For what, under this criterion, would become of the peripatetic inebriates who plague every community and who can wobble their way from one ward to another without the slightest difficulty?

Coming down to cases, we surmise that after all, Brother Bryan was not so brash as he is represented. The grape-juice dinner may not be as thrilling as the other kind, but it is perfectly safe.

WASTED HORSE-POWER.

The controversial troubles with which Atlanta is now plagued will vanish in a night if the suggestion of J. B. Wooten, of Cordele, published elsewhere, is adopted. We commend it with our whole heart.

Nature despises wasted horse-power, as she does a vacuum. A deal of horse-power is now running to expletives in Atlanta and going ineffectual over the mill-dam. Harness it! Set it to chopping cotton! Apply it to a few of the factories around Atlanta. If some of the energy being futilely discharged into the atmosphere were transformed into electricity there would be power enough and to spare to operate all the trolleys and the arc lights and the white way.

The process would clear up the situation marvelously and prove a sure cure for grouches and nervous tension and intemperance of speech. Personal squabbles look mighty small when one has finished wrestling with a row of begrassed cotton under a late May sun. Go to it, gentlemen, and vote Mr. Wooten a great constructive discoverer!

A DISAPPOINTING CLIMAX.

It begins to look as if those who had hoped that out of the war in the near east would rise a new nation under the flag of the Balkan federation will have their dreams for their pains. Bulgaria and Greece and Servia are at daggers' points, and already fighting between them has been reported. The European powers threaten to intervene, since this internal strife may well reopen the entire troubled question. But even if Europe coerces peace between the warring Balkan states, there is no guarantee that it would be of long duration.

The truth is that, save in their animosity to the Turk, the aims and purposes of the Balkan states are, in many respects, antithetical. Heretofore the necessity of expelling the common enemy has forced the subordination of minor feuds. But with the Turk out of the way the quarrels that have for some time been brewing between Bulgaria and Servia and Greece and Montenegro, not to mention neutral Roumania, are likely to reascend to the surface.

It appears that what is now needed more than anything else is one central powerful figure, with the force and diplomacy to reconcile the rival ambitions of the different small powers in the near east. Such a personality could really write a large chapter of the world's history.

The Jacksonville Times-Union believes that "next year the office will seek the man in Florida." If so, it won't be different there. As in other states it will find the man camping on its front lawn.

The Colonel may take advantage of his enforced vacation to visit the ruins of Armageddon.

No Editorial Trust.

"Because we own and manage six weekly newspapers in two states we have been called a 'paper trust' by an envious contemporary," says The Adairsville Enterprise editor, "when, heaven knows, no editor in this country hates a trust as heartily as we do. We might have joined the coal trust, or become chief stockholder in a diamond mine with the money we've made in the weekly newspaper business, but we elected to start more papers with the enlightenment of a enlighted country. No trusts in ours! Our main reason for having six newspapers is that when one fails we're still in the ring—on praying ground and pleading terms."

New News of Yesterday

How Andrew Johnson Was Nominated for Vice President.

BY E. J. Edwards.

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

Chauncey M. Depew related to me recently the inner history of the manner in which Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, was nominated for vice president by the republican party, instead of the distinguished son of New York, Daniel S. Dickinson, whom the leaders of the party had agreed to name as vice presidential candidate with Abraham Lincoln.

"Judge William C. Robinson, whose appointment as collector of the port of New York by President Garfield, in 1841, led to the resignation of Senator Roscoe Conkling, and Thomas C. Platt was chosen a delegate from Westchester county, New York state, to the republican national convention in 1864," said Mr. Depew.

E. J. Edwards.

"I went with Judge Robertson to the convention and received the proxy of one of the delegates of the convention who could not be present. Judge Robertson suggested to me that we pay a visit to William H. Seward, then secretary of state, before attending the convention. We therefore left New York a day or two earlier than we would otherwise have done so that we might have ample opportunity to spend a few hours with Secretary Seward.

"Seward was a very warm personal friend of Judge Robertson. He owed in great measure his election to the United States senate for the second time to the support given him by Judge Robertson in the New York state legislature.

"We called upon Secretary Seward at the state department. He was extremely cordial. He invited us to take dinner with him and his family at his house, which fronted Jackson square, in Washington. None but members of his family was present at the dinner table. After dinner was over the family went from the dining room, leaving Seward, Judge Robertson and myself alone at the table.

"Mr. Seward said that he was very glad that we had come to see him, for he had a matter of great importance to talk over with us. I can repeat almost his precise words.

"He said: 'I understand that there has been a practical agreement among the republican leaders to nominate ex-Senator Daniel S. Dickinson for vice president on the ticket with Lincoln. Now I want to say to you that I myself am not in any way interfere with the action of the convention. Any man whom the convention is satisfied to nominate for vice president will be satisfactory to Lincoln.

"'Therefore, you must not suspect that what I am now going to tell you reflects in any way the view of the president. I greatly fear that the party will make a serious mistake if it nominates Dickinson for vice president. I know that, strong democrat as he was, he has become an even stronger union man, but I also know that except for the fact that he is a union man he is one of the most ultra-democrats in this country. Moreover, he is a man who cannot always control his temper. His discretion is not good. Now if anything were to happen to Lincoln so that Dickinson would become president; I think he would give the country a regular old-fashioned democratic administration.

"'In my view, the wise nomination would be that of a man who represents the border states. I think that Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee, fills the bill. He has been governor, he is United States senator and has been a very strong union man in Tennessee ever since the war began. Besides that, he was early in life a "poor white" of Tennessee. I think his nomination would appeal very strongly to the border states and also to the union element in the south. Will you see if you cannot prevent the nomination of Dickinson and bring about the nomination of Andrew Johnson?'

"We promised Seward that we would do what we could. We went to the convention a day before it was organized. The first delegate we talked with was Governor Minor, of Connecticut. He agreed with us and he took the whole Connecticut delegation with him. Then we talked to other delegates and they finally agreed to leave the matter entirely to the New York state delegation. Our delegation had a secret meeting, which lasted from 7 o'clock in the evening to 1 o'clock in the morning. We told the delegates what Secretary Seward had said to us. There was a very hot battle for a time, for the New York delegates felt that the nomination for vice president should go to New York. At last we took a vote, and by one majority the New York delegation decided to support the nomination of Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee. When the other delegates heard of this action they cheerfully agreed to support Johnson. Therefore it was due to the suggestion of William H. Seward that Andrew Johnson was nominated for vice president instead of Daniel S. Dickinson, of New York."

Cotton-Chopping as Remedy For Atlanta's "Cussing" Match

Editor Constitution: If all of those who are now militantly and vociferously filling the Atlanta atmosphere with epithets about one another will come to Cordele, where we have fifteen hundred acres of cotton that is ruining for chopping, and help us chop it out, and eat some of our good old country hams, we feel that they will be doing the great city of Atlanta a favor, and that they will be feeling better when the job is done.

We guarantee that if they will hoe row for row with us they will not feel so bilious on their return, but will go back to Atlanta smiling and feeling that they have done at least one good deed.

Hoping that the above honorable gentlemen will decide to take up our proposition and that we will be the means of giving the good people of Atlanta at least a two weeks' rest, we are

J. B. WOOTEN.

THE MAN OF MYSTERY.

By Philip Weltner, Secretary Prison Association of Georgia

Unknown to himself, he is unknown to others. The criminal is as much of an enigma to himself as to those who dread his presence. Society hates him, because society fears him. He hates society, because society has played him the coward. That he should be a criminal is as surprising to the criminal as to those who believe in his honesty. He does not picture himself as a mean, low-browed, skulking malefactor, gloating in the blood of his victims. He never imagined that his heart was a craven engine of designing malice, that his eyes shone forth the light of lustful greed.

He knows society has gotten together a tremendous machinery, at enormous cost, to catch him and brand him as something he disclaims being. He knows that he is where he is, that the place is called a penitentiary, and that few of his fellows ever know enough about themselves to become penitent.

There is a reason for every man being what he is. The reason is a bald fact, apparent enough to those who track it down. The reason for a crime is not the fact that the perpetrator is a criminal. That is just a brand. Branded cattle are still cattle; branded men are still men. There are weak men, there are perverted men; but, apart from these, there is no such thing as a criminal.

There is a reason. True penitence demands that this reason be made clear to the offender. Penitence begins in knowledge. A penitentiary that leaves the offender in ignorance of the reason—the particular weakness, the peculiar perversion—is an institution based on hypocrisy, and wrong to its foundation.

Useless humiliation will not work the wonder of self-realization. To lower self-respect will only plunge the victim in denser darkness. Those who feared him when he was in their midst will have reason to fear him more. He will continue in his unreasoning way—a man of mystery, hating and hated.

A Worthy Movement.

Editor Constitution: In your issue of May 25 Mrs. Eugene M. Mitchell contributes an interesting and timely article on the subject, "The Defective Children of Georgia." I can heartily indorse everything Mrs. Mitchell says regarding these unfortunate children. I happen to have had some experience, in a professional capacity, with a few of these children, and I know that in poor families, the members of which have to work to support themselves and the smaller children, the presence of these defectives are a very serious problem. It is an absolute impossibility for them to be properly cared for at home. They are a heavy burden to the family, and often a perpetual nuisance to the neighbors. I knew one such, who when he became a large boy, roamed about the settlement daily, from month to month, and kept the good mothers of the community in constant dread, lest this foolish boy might take it in his head to harm some of the children whom he might chance meet on the road to school, or elsewhere. His parents could do nothing with him. We tried to get him into the hospital for the insane at Milledgeville, but the authorities there would not take him. So the community had to put up with him; there seemed to be no remedy except to chain him or kill him.

A very large per cent of these defectives could, if taken in charge when young, be developed and trained to a point where they would be self-supporting, and many of them could be made useful laborers. I shall be glad to help Mrs. Mitchell and her coworkers secure legislation looking to the proper care and training of these unfortunates, which are now neglected.

But Mrs. Mitchell does not go far enough. We should do our full duty by these defectives that are now among us. The sentiments of humanity demand this. The principles of Christianity demand it. But we should adopt means, if possible, to prevent any further additions of this kind of children to our population. Can this be done by scientific legislation? I think it can. A bill will be introduced at the forthcoming session of the legislature legalizing and making compulsory the sterilization of idiots and confirmed criminals. Individuals like the idiotic boy referred to above would come under the operation of this wise and humane law. Such a law in the opinion of the best medical authority in this country would go a long way in the prevention of imbeciles and idiots as well as criminals. The physicians of Georgia, in their annual meeting at Savannah last month, unanimously indorsed this law.

Will Mrs. Mitchell help us put this law on the statute books of Georgia?

Gossip Caught in Corridors Of the National Capitol

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 29.—(Special.)—Fifty years have elapsed since the battle of Gettysburg. Had that mighty conflict resulted differently and the armies of Lee triumphed, the history of this country would have had to be rewritten.

But the confederacy there reached its high tide and then receded. In the fifty years that have elapsed changes have taken place, readjustments been made, enmities forgotten and friendships cemented. Hence there will gather on this field in July the survivors of the two armies that met here in the mightiest shock of the civil war.

On that field 171,000 men faced each other in July, 1863. A month from now the greatest reunion of these old veterans that has ever taken place will be held, under the auspices of the state of Pennsylvania and the federal government.

They will view again "Little Round Top," the key of the battlefield, and speculate on what would have happened if this strategic point had been taken by the confederates in the first day's battle. They will gaze with awe upon the peaceful field of waving corn where Pickett's Virginians swept forward across seven-eighths of a mile of level ground under the thunders of eighty guns. They will approach as a sacrificial altar the huge boulders in Devil's Den, where brave sharpshooters gave up their lives to brothers-in-arms.

The state of Pennsylvania will bring together again these men of the north and of the south on one of the greatest battlefields of the world, not to meet in deadly conflict, but to join hands in peace and marvel at the changes that fifty years have brought.

One Army Instead of Two.

No higher evidence can be offered that the war is over, and that we are now a reunited country than this cementing and crowning celebration at Gettysburg. There will be 40,000 veterans—one army instead of two—one flag instead of two—one government instead of two. There will be no rivalry, except the splendid rivalry of patriotism. A southerner will deliver the principal oration, and that at the request of the veterans of the blue, and in this splendid opportunity which is offered him Representative Heflin, of Alabama, whose loyalty to the traditions of the south is only surpassed by his fidelity to his country, will draw closer and bind stronger the ties of patriotism and mutual admiration and interest existing now between the veterans of both these great armies.

These are the great things which will come to pass when the old soldiers meet at Gettysburg in one of the greatest celebrations that will ever be staged for a similar event. No other such gathering will be possible, for when the century mark has rolled around all the men who fought in this great battle will have been laid to rest. Their deeds may, and will, gather at the shrine made sacred by the blood and heroic deed of their fathers, but the coming celebration will be the only one where the real actors in that stirring drama can be brought on the stage for their final bow.

The United States, very properly, joined hands with Pennsylvania in making the affair a success. Other states have signified their intentions, by legislative act, of taking part in the celebration, and will send all the veterans in their jurisdiction to the reunion.

Free Transportation for Veterans.

Each state will be given the option of determining to what veterans of the civil war it will issue free transportation. Pennsylvania's invitation being that to such "honorably discharged veterans of the civil war" as come to Gettysburg for the above celebration, either upon free transportation or at their own expense, and present proper credentials proving them to be such veterans, she will provide food, shelter and entertainment during that period, but she furnishes free transportation to no one save her own veterans. The national government furnishes no free transportation whatever.

In the final completion of all plans looking to this, the greatest reunion of the veterans of both armies since the war, it was decided that Pennsylvania, as the host, should provide all entertainment during the stay of the old veterans, and that she and the national government, together as provided in the act of congress August 26, 1912, by each paying $150,000 to the war department this total, should create and maintain a great camp and garrison equipment, with all quartermaster, commissary, hospital and other necessary supplies and aid for the 40,000 veterans.

The camp, which has already been selected, comprises some 280 acres, starting about 200 yards from the high-water mark monument in the battlefield, and lying to the southwest of the town and partly upon the scene of the first day's fight.

Care of the Veterans.

Five thousand tents will be stretched over this vast area. Each tent ordinarily shelters twelve men, but on this occasion only eight veterans will be quartered in a tent. Each will be supplied with a cot, blanket and mess kit, the latter to become his property. Each tent will contain, also, two hand basins, water buckets and lanterns. Toilet articles other than these must be furnished by the veterans themselves.

Every provision has been made to take care of the veterans. Their mail and telegrams will be looked after by a special postoffice; they will be served their meals at the end of the company street, and everything has been arranged except the disposition of baggage, which the veteran must take care of himself. Veterans have been warned against bringing trunks, only handbags being allowed, and, also, a notice has been given out that no women will be allowed to stay at the camp or to eat their meals there.

It is announced that the camp will be opened in complete readiness for the reception of veterans on Sunday, June 29, 1913, the first meal served being supper that night. The camp will be kept open until the following July 4, when the last meal being breakfast that morning. No one, under any circumstances, will be allowed in the camp before or after these dates.

Each veteran must have an authentic credential showing him to be such. This credential must be his honorable discharge, or his pension certificate, or a certificate of service from the governor of the state in which he enlisted. This is to prevent the possibility of any but real veterans enjoying the reunion planned for them at no small expense by the state of Pennsylvania and the United States government.

Get Good Price for Oats.

(From The Norman Park Press.)

Several weeks ago the Colquitt county farmers could be seen hauling out wagon loads of oats, hay, corn, etc., for their stock, but now the program has fortunately been reversed and many of the planters are daily bringing to Moultrie wagon loads of oats that have been cut for hay. It is bringing a good price.

As has been stated before in The Observer, the oat crop last fall was the largest ever planted in this county, and now that the harvest has begun farmers are reaping a reward. While, due to the rust, the yield has not been as great as was expected, there is not ground for special complaint.

MORE STREET CARS FOR RUSH HOURS

Railroad Commission Orders Increased Service on Peachtree, Whitehall, Marietta and Other Lines.

An increase in the number of cars to be operated during the rush hours on a number of lines of the Georgia Railway and Power company was ordered by the railroad commission yesterday. The commission's order was the result of the investigation of a number of complaints of patrons of the street cars that had been filed from time to time.

The improved schedules have been under consideration by the commission for some weeks, and there were several conferences of Chairman Murphey Candler with officials of the railway on the subject. Nearly all of the changes ordered were suggested by President Arkwright in a letter to Mr. Candler.

It is hoped by the commission that the improvements made will greatly expedite the handling of traffic during the morning and afternoon rush hours, and will give general satisfaction to the public. The increases in schedules agreed on are as follows:

Increases Agreed On.

Route No. 2. Cowanhill to West View; rearrangement of schedules so as to spare the headway between cars now operated, more nearly to four minutes and secure an evener distribution of the traffic loads. Counts of actual loads at peak points to be made during next five months and filed with commission, so as to secure accurate information as to whether there is excessive congestion.

Route No. 4. Inman Park-Georgia avenue; a three and one-third minute headway during morning and afternoon rush hours on Inman Park end, with the Georgia avenue end provided for by increased service on Route No. 5.

Route No. 5. West Peachtree and South Pryor; additional cars through Sixth street crossing on West Peachtree and Bass street crossing on South Pryor, so as to give during the morning and afternoon rush hours a service with five minutes' headway.

Route No. 6. Forrest avenue and Capitol avenue; original counts to be made during morning and afternoon rush hours at two peak points during next five months, to accurately ascertain degree of congestion, if any, on this route.

Route No. 8. Fair and Marietta streets; the afternoon rush hour service on this line has been recently extended 6:30 to 7 p. m., and schedules now established more regularly sustained. Counts of traffic loads to be made on this route as directed on No. 6.

Route No. 10. Whitehall and Peachtree; increased service so as to provide for cars every three and one-third minutes, and extension of afternoon rush hour service to 9 p. m.

Route No. 17. Main-Decatur; additional tripper cars to Hayes street, so as to give service to that point with three and one-third minutes' headway, and from there to Decatur on five minutes' headway during morning and afternoon rush hours, with extension of service on ten-minute headway from end of afternoon rush hour period to 9:30 p. m., in lieu of present twenty minutes' headway. After 9:30 p. m., the twenty-minute headway will be operated as now.

Route No. 19. River line; extra cars on Sunday's during summer months to accommodate extra traffic. Counts of traffic loads to be made on this route week days as directed on other named routes, to accurately ascertain measure of regular traffic.

Route No. 220. College Park, East Point and Hapeville; actual counts of week-day loads at peak points to be made during next five months, to ascertain accurately if there is over-congestion in regular traffic.

Route No. 23. Buckhead line; tripper service previously ordered by the commission to Sixth street on West Peachtree has been recently extended by the company to Dead Man's curve, the end of double track, which gives local service this far on a ten-minute headway during rush hours, and to a great extent relieves congestion on the Buckhead cars. In addition, double-headers in the morning and afternoon hours for congestion during those hours arising out of construction work in the northern part of the city, are operated and will be continued as necessity demands. Counts, during morning and afternoon rush hours, for the next five months, of actual loads at the peak point of the Buckhead line, have been ordered, and will determine the necessity of further relief on this route.

LAST SESSION TODAY.

Georgia Hardware Men to Select Officers and Meeting Place.

A noonday barbecue at the Atlanta Steel company's plant was the feaure of the second day's session of the Georgia Retail Hardware association, which convened in its eighth annual session in Taft hall at the Auditorium-Armory Wednesday morning, and which will conclude its work today with the annual election of officers and the selection of a place for the next annual meeting of the association.

As President T. G. Green, of Eatonton, called the convention to order yesterday morning for its second day he introduced L. L. Hutchinson, of Kenosha, who delivered a thoughtful talk on the "Best System of Collection." J. B. Johnson, of Conyers, spoke on "Local hospitality," and paid a compliment to Atlanta for the manner in which its citizens always care for visitors. "Relations of Jobber to Retailer" was handled in an address by W. A. Parker, of Atlanta. Other addresses during the morning session were by S. R. Miles, of St. Louis, and R. R. Williams, of New York.

At noon President Green advised the association that cars had been parked near the Auditorium to transfer members of the association to the barbecue grounds, and adjournment was taken until 2:30 o'clock.

The barbecue at the Atlanta Steel company's plant was a delightful feature of the session of the hardware association and will long be remembered by those present.

The afternoon session was given up to an address by J. H. Harris, of Carrollton, on "How to Successfully Conduct a Retail Hardware Business."

After an address by Sam D. Jones, of Atlanta, this morning the association will select a place of meeting next year and elect its officers for the year.

CITIZENS OF DEKALB WILL HEAR DR. SOULE

Dr. A. M. Soule, of the State university, will address farmers, dairymen and truckmen at the Decatur courthouse June 3, on the agricultural possibilities of DeKalb county. The meeting has been extensively advertised by the Decatur board of trade, upon whose invitation he speaks.

M. Candler, chairman of the railroad commission, will also address the people on this occasion on the life and work of Jefferson Davis. The Clement A. Evans camp of Confederate veterans and the Agnes Lee chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy are joining forces with the Decatur board of trade in observing the birthday of Jefferson Davis, and the speech of Dr. Candler will add much to the interest of the occasion.

Representative Smith, representative-elect from DeKalb county, will also make a speech on the subject of locating the Fifth district agricultural school in DeKalb county. Mr. Smith is going to do all he can to have the coming legislature to locate this school in DeKalb county.

Under the re-districting of the state, Walton county was left out of the Fifth congressional district, and as the Fifth district agricultural school was in Walton county, the Fifth district has no agricultural school at all.

President W. J. Dabney, of the Decatur board of trade, will preside over this meeting and introduce the speakers.

WM. J. BRYAN CANCELS ALL SOUTHERN DATES

United States Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan has cancelled all the dates for his approaching southern visit, and consequently will not speak in Atlanta Monday night.

Mr. Bryan was to have delivered the anniversary address for the quarter centennial celebration of the Georgia School of Technology. Yesterday afternoon President K. G. Matheson received a telegram from Congressman William Asbury Howard, announcing that exigencies of state prevented Mr. Bryan from leaving Washington, though he particularly regretted the fact on account of his promise to make the special address to the Tech students and their friends.

Dr. Matheson announces, therefore, that the gathering for Monday evening at the Grand Opera house will not take place. All the other announced features of the quarter centennial and commencement will take place just as announced.

SMALL AMOUNT GIVEN FOR PREVENTION WORK

Although the Anti-Tuberculosis association is prosecuting its work more vigorously than ever before, and is responding to every call made upon it in an effort to better conditions and lend assistance wherever possible, the people of Atlanta have not so far been very generous in responding to the call for subscriptions for support of this institution.

The canvass for funds for the carrying on of the work of the organization is still in progress, but so far only a small beginning has been made. The association asked the people of Atlanta for $5,000 of the $10,000 necessary with which to press its work during the coming year, and up to this time less than 15 per cent of this amount has been collected. Unless this subscription can be raised there is no question, in the opinion of the officials of the organization, that it will be seriously handicapped in the work it is endeavoring to do for Atlanta.

Many instances might be given of the work the visiting nurses of the association are doing, not only in ameliorating severe conditions wherever they find them, but in seeking to prevent the spread of the disease to others. Example is given of a family of eight members living in Atlanta, which five of the children are suffering from tuberculosis. The bread-winners of the family are all under 16 years of age and they earn a total of $5.30 a week working in a mill upon which the family is supported. The association makes it a point to keep close supervision upon families of this sort, to win their affection and insist on carefulness in their habits so as to prevent the spread of the disease.

Three children in another instance, making $45 a month, earn the entire living for a family of eleven. When the elder of these children contracted tuberculosis the family income was reduced more than half. It took not only argument but force to get this young girl into a sanitorium, after she has been committed until sufficiently improved to resume her occupation.

Blind Chaplain Better.

Rev. J. W. G. Watkins, the blind chaplain of the senate, who has been confined at his home for several weeks from injuries received in a street car accident, is on the streets again greeting his friends in his usual cheerful manner.

GENTRY IN HIDING EVEN FROM MOTHER

Police and Detectives Fail to Locate the Man Who Took Dictagraph Notes.

The disappearance of George M. Gentry, of 32 East Alexander street, the young stenographer who noted the alleged dictagraph conversation in the Williams house, has cast a puzzling aspect to the recent sensational bribery charges against Col. T. B. Felder, and the attorney's counter charges of police corruption.

Many efforts have been made to locate him. It is understood that the grand jury has even failed in an attempt to subpoena him in connection with their investigation of the bribery charges. No human being, as so far developed, has seen the missing stenographer since his disappearance Monday morning of this week. He has apparently vanished among 200,000 souls.

Mrs. R. Cameron, sister of Gentry's mother, told a reporter that although neither she nor any of the youth's family were acquainted with his whereabouts, they daily received telephonic communication from him, in which he stated that he was in good health and still in the city. He will not tell, they say, his location. Also, the reporter was told that his disappearance would be indefinite.

Wishes to Evade Notoriety.

Mrs. Cameron said that her nephew's object in disappearing was to evade the notoriety to which he was subjected since the bribery charges, and the interrogation from newspaper reporters who besieged him daily. Mrs. Cameron also says that an alleged newspaper reporter, who had recently seen Gentry, had advised him to leave the city, telling him that a warrant had been issued for his arrest on trumped-up charges.

Mrs. Cameron did not say whether or not her missing relative was residing with friends, was in an obscure boarding place, a downtown hotel or on the outskirts of the city. She did not know, she stated. Her sister, Mrs. Gentry, Mrs. Cameron said, was not perturbed over her son's predicament, because of the daily communication which he established with his family by telephone.

Speculation is rife over the stenographer's disappearance. Those directly concerned in the bribery charges theorize on the situation that is likely to arise from the birthday of Jefferson Davis, and the speech of Dr. Candler will add much to the interest of the occasion.

Representative Smith, representative-elect from DeKalb county, will also make a speech on the subject of locating the Fifth district agricultural school in DeKalb county. Mr. Smith is going to do all he can to have the coming legislature to locate this school in DeKalb county.

Under the re-districting of the state, Walton county was left out of the Fifth congressional district, and as the Fifth district agricultural school was in Walton county, the Fifth district has no agricultural school at all.

President W. J. Dabney, of the Decatur board of trade, will preside over this meeting and introduce the speakers.

WILL NOT SEND TROOPS TO ANDERSONVILLE

Unless the sheriff of Sumter county finds that he is unable to cope with the situation, there will be no troops ordered by the state to Andersonville to preserve order today. Memorial day at Andersonville is a great day for the negroes in southwest Georgia. Excursion trains are run into the town for a radius of a hundred miles around, loaded down with black humanity. This dark cloud gathering around him, generally throws such a damper on the mayor of the place that he wires to the adjutant general for troops. Adjutant General Nash was in receipt of the usual urgent telegraphic request for soldiers from Mayor T. J. Hardin yesterday, but he replied that the law now compelled him to leave the situation in the hands of the sheriff as long as that official could handle it. General Nash does not anticipate trouble.

POSTOFFICE CLOSES FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Observing National Memorial day, the Atlanta postoffice, together with other offices in the federal building, will close at 12 o'clock today so as to give all government employees a half holiday. During the morning, however, there will be two deliveries from the postoffice in the residential portion of the city and one in the residential portion.

Millinery Firm Files Schedule.

The Myers Millinery company, doing business in Atlanta, against which involuntary proceedings in bankruptcy were filed by its creditors with the clerk of the federal court on May 6, has submitted a schedule of its assets and liabilities, together with an offer of 16 2-3 cents composition. In the papers made out by yesterday the company shows liabilities amounting to $55,537.46, with assets aggregating $18,741.32.

BOARD APPROVES BEAVERS' CHOICE

Peace Rules at Special Session, Which Votes to Allow Chief to Promote Men Under Him.

The police board, instead of kicking up a row at the special meeting last night, applauded Mayor James G. Woodward and Chairman Carlos Mason when they declared that they stood for peace and harmony.

The meeting was called for the purpose of electing a sergeant, and it was expected that there would be a merry tustle between the so-called Woodward and Mason factions. When the board met last night opposition was made on Chief James L. Beavers being allowed to nominate and promote subordinates, and it resulted in a "deadlock."

There was no opposition to Chief Beavers from any member of the board. He nominated Detective J. B. Hewell, and nine members of the board voted to sustain him. Mayor Woodward voted for Patrolman Thornton and Commissioner George Johnson voted for Patrolman Whatley.

"I know Detective Hewell, and he is a fine man," Mayor Woodward said. "I voted for him once before, and would have voted for him again but for the fact that I promised to vote for Thornton. I am simply carrying out my promise."

Resolutions of Confidence.

Not only did the board sustain the power of the chief to nominate and promote men of the police department, but it unanimously adopted resolutions of faith and confidence in Chief Beavers and Detective Chief Lanford. The resolutions follows:

"Whereas, it is essential that there should be harmony in the police force and its officers; and

"Whereas, at this critical time there should be no mistake in the public mind concerning the attitude of this board toward Chief James L. Beavers and Chief N. A. Lanford, and their work as chiefs of the forces under them; be it

"Resolved, That the board has implicit confidence in the chiefs, their work and the entire force; and be it further

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this board that the chief of police should nominate the officers under him in his work."

The resolutions was offered by Commissioner C. R. Garner.

Both Chairman Mason and Mayor Woodward declared that they were pleased over the turn of affairs in the police board. Chairman Mason said that he has worked in the interest of harmony ever since becoming a member of the board.

PICTURE OF GEN. EVANS WILL BE HUNG TODAY

There will be hung in the capitol today a portrait of the late General Clement A. Evans, painted by Mrs. J. R. Gregory, an Atlanta artist. The portrait is of full life size and has attracted favorable comment from nearly every one who has seen it. It was viewed in the artist's studio by a number of Union veterans who were delegates to the recent Presbyterian assemblies, and they with one accord are said to have pronounced it a grand picture of a grand man.

HAILED TO COURT WHEN HE REFUSED TO GIVE TESTIMONY

Columbus, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—A stir was created in court circles today when Leo Loewenherz, a prominent merchant, was cited by Solicitor General Palmer to appear before Judge Gilbert, of the superior court, to show cause why he should not be committed for contempt of court.

The grand jury is investigating the case of a former bookkeeper of Loewenherz's charged with larceny after trust and Loewenherz refused to tell the grand jury whether the bookkeeper was short in his account as reported. The merchant claimed that he stood on his constitutional rights in refusing to answer the question.

Arraigned before Judge Gilbert he was represented by Judge A. W. Cozart. The court said the matter would be taken under consideration, but intimated pretty clearly what its course would be.

At the afternoon session of the grand jury Loewenherz reconsidered and answered the question in a way satisfactory to the solicitor general.

The alleged defalcation is said to have been between $18,000 and $20,000.

The action of the grand jury has not yet been made public.

LIFE LESSONS DRAWN FROM MATHEMATICS

Dr. Dunbar H. Ogden delivered the commencement address at Atlanta university last Wednesday, when 31 students were graduated from the normal school and eight were graduated from the college.

Dr. Ogden took as the subject of his address "The Morals of Mathematics." Dr. Ogden chose mathematics to typify the great abiding principles of the Almighty, and in the course of his address he took certain simple problems in arithmetic, algebra and geometry, from which he drew lessons of the great truths of life.

"Two plus two equals four," he said. "How simple. Yet this means that the additions of life are abiding, changeless. The subtractions of life are just as fixed and abiding. If we detach our bodies or our minds, we leave a scar forever. The mathematics of God stands."

Dr. Ogden urged that the thinking white and negro men and women add to their racial consciousness the best memories of the past, not the worst.

Algebra he took as emblematic of "a mathematical principle of life, the revealing power of the equations of life."

He drew from the geometrical axiom, "a straight line is the shortest distance between two points," the necessity for a fixedness of purpose in life.

YIDDISH EVANGELIST AT SECOND BAPTIST

An illustrated address on "Israel Among the Nations" was delivered by Philip Sidersky, the Yiddish evangelist of Baltimore, Md., at the Second Baptist church Thursday evening. The condition of the Jews in Russia was illustrated by word pictures and by stereopticon, and the pictures of many prominent Jews who have contributed to the world's progress were thrown upon the screen and their achievements were discussed.

Mr. Sidersky, who has delivered his illustrated addresses at the First Baptist, Central Presbyterian and Second Baptist church, will deliver his final illustrated lecture at the First Presbyterian church tonight.

Dr. Ridley's Anniversary.

The Central Baptist church will celebrate Dr. C. A. Ridley's first anniversary as pastor next Sunday with special features. The Sunday school launches at the same time its contest between the men and boys on the one side and the women and girls on the other.

At the morning hour the chorus of fifty voices will render a special song written by Dr. Ridley, with music by Mr. Bell, the chorus director, entitled "Jesus, Over Whose Wide World." It is written as a companion hymn to "The Whole Wide World for Jesus."

At night the pastor will speak on "Ghosts, and Why I Believe in Them," his general theme being the rule of dead men.

PLAYERS CLUB TO DINE WITH MRS. R. L. COONEY

After rehearsing faithfully for ten nights in succession, the members of the cast of the Players club will rest tonight and dine with Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Cooney, at the Piedmont Driving club, where a gay party of twenty will talk of their ambitions off the stage.

For no play yet presented has there been more hard work put in than for this one, "The Importance of Being Earnest," by the artist-dramatist, Oscar Wilde. The play is not long, but there is concentrated in it a world of action and thought and worldly philosophy, and the members of the cast are putting their best effort in interpreting the meaning of the author.

While the players have studied and rehearsed their parts, the officers of the club have been most interested and have attended the rehearsals regularly, offering their suggestions, taking the part of absent ones and assisting in the stage settings when necessary.

Mrs. John Marshall Slaton has a part which shows her in charming role. Mrs. William Owens and Mrs. Henry Bernard Scott and Miss Hildreth Burton Smith know every line of the different parts, and are wonderfully clever.

The gentlemen, Mr. Marsh Adair, Mr. Hamilton Douglas, Jr., Mr. Lamar Hill and Mr. Frank Taylor are worthy support to the ladies, and every detail of the play is being worked out in truly professional style.

Seats are on sale for the performance which takes place next Tuesday evening, June 3, at the Atlanta theater.

Evening Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis D. Sharpe entertained a few friends informally at bridge last night, their guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Seydel, of New York, Dr. and Mrs. G. K. Varden and Miss Ione Watson of Anniston, Ala.

The decorations were an artistic use of white roses and daisies, and the daisy colors were carried out in pretty detail. A Dutch supper followed the game.

Mrs. Sharpe was becomingly gowned in white chiffon crepe and lace.

Mrs. W. E. Cantrell will entertain this afternoon at her home on Gordon street, in compliment to her daughter, Mrs. D. S. Jones, who has recently arrived from Arizona. The guests will include the members of Mrs. Cantrell's club and friends of Mrs. Jones.

You cannot find a nicer or pleasanter place in all the South than the Warm Springs, Meriwether county, Large, Commodious Hotel and Cottages; fine climate, 1,250 feet elevation. Largest Swimming Pool, with natural warm water, in the whole country. Cuisine unequaled. Rates reasonable. Clean, clear, cool, and no gnats or mosquitoes. May Festival Today.

One of the most beautiful events of the season will be the May festival at Soap Bean Farm, Friday afternoon, May 30, at 4:30 o'clock. This annual festival is given under the auspices of the Uncle Remus Memorial association, directed and managed by Mrs. Brevard Montgomery, who originated the idea four years ago when the association was first organized. Miss Ethel Thornton will open the exercises of the afternoon with a reading from Uncle Remus stories. Those who have heard Miss Thornton will be delighted to hear her again on this occasion as she is very talented in this line of work and all present will enjoy a rare treat.

Just before this reading all the children on the grounds will be invited inside the ribbons of the royal court and join Miss Harralson, music director of the city schools, in a May-day song. The knights will then ascend a long avenue leading to the throne and stand to the right and left of the throne. Miss Frances Stokes, the pretty queen of last year, with her maid of honor, Miss Elva Keeton, follow shortly behind the knights and Miss Stokes takes her seat and awaits the coming of the new queen. Clifford Smith, the scepter bearer enters the avenue, with Master Charles Ward, who carries a white satin pillow bearing the queen's crown of rosebuds. These are followed by the maids, five of West End's fairest young girls, Misses Lucile Price, Katherine Hackett, Margie Kurfees, Sara Colcord and Mary Crusselle. These maids will walk, one by one, down this long white avenue and be met by the gallant young knights, Warren Pollard, Thomas Stokes, Orvit Floyd, Chandler Harris and Howard Crumley, at the turn in the avenue, when the two together march up and salute "Queen Frances." All eyes will next be directed to the dainty little flower girls, Angel Allen, Helen Beasley, Cynthia Ward, Ruth Johnson, LaRose Wagner and Mary Harris, led by Elizabeth Body. These little maidens will carry tiny baskets filled with [illegible] and sing the bridal chorus from Lohengrin. Following the flower girls come the bridesmaids, Misses Frances Kendrick, Tom Wilson, Frank Baker Smith, Edward Burton and John Landers, who carry garlands of sweet peas. After these children have reached the throne, the queen of the May, Miss Katherine Vickers, approaches the avenue from Mrs. Lucian Harris' flower garden, where she has been in waiting beneath a large bower of crimson ramblers, awaiting for the trumpet, which will announce her arrival. She will walk to the throne beneath a large canopy of snowballs held high above her head by Newton McEachern and Brevard Montgomery. Miss Vickers is an unusually pretty brunette, her wavy black hair forms a beautiful frame for her bright, attractive face. As she nears the throne, the queen of last year rises to greet her and places the crown of roses upon her head. This scene will form a beautiful picture. Around the throne will be gathered a band of merry children, who will be led to the throne in the royal court by Master William Disbro and Miss Elizabeth Lovett. Next comes the final event of the afternoon, the May pole dances. There will be three poles, one with ribbons of pink and blue, held by sixteen tiny tots, Christine Arnold, Ada Nichols, Annie Griffin, Edna Body, Elizabeth Dent, Ruth Williams, Edith Beasley, Louise Arnold, Jane Williams, Lula Burton, Edna Volfe, Katherine Poole, Eloise Whitehead, Mildred Case, Laura Jones and Mary Lou Smith.

One in violet and gold with the following little girls to hold the ribbons: Alice Arnold, Lettie Nichols, Thomasine Vickers, Elizabeth Volentine, Alice Stewart, Martha Margaret Thornton Maud Buchanan, Eva Moore, Willie Thewel, Aubrey Burch, Virginia Jones, Elizabeth Hensley, Carolina Maddin, Margaret Tillman and Nelta Dickey.

The largest girls who will twine the crimson and white ribbons will be: Evelyn Jordan, Louise Nichols, Dorothy Brogdon, Maud Foster, Cathrige Culberson, Geneve Harper, Christine McEachern, Helen Hall, Gertrude, Henslee, Evelyn Kelly, Ruby Chapman, Elsye Menkle, Lela Barton and Alyce Lyndorm.

These dances conclude the program but not the afternoon's pleasures for scattered all over the spacious grounds will be found something to satisfy the tastes of the most fastidious. Lemonade, ginger bread, candy, sandwiches, coffee, cake, popcorn balls, and everything good to eat, also Bob Parr's fish pond will be ready to fish in all the nickles.

FREE BAND CONCERT AT THE MOTORDROME

Sunday Will Be Inspection Day. Popular Prices to Prevail at Events.

With seating capacity for 8,000 or 10,000 people in the grand stand and with standing room for 60,000 in the infield there ought to be comfortable accommodations for the enthusiasts who will gather Sunday afternoon at Lake Forest motordrome to inspect the new race track to be given by Waddemeyer and Hand.

The band was definitely engaged yesterday afternoon and the full organization will play in the band stand of the motordrome infield from 3:30 to 6 o'clock.

Jack Prince, Manager Noon Hudson, and all the riders will be on hand. Of course, there will be no riding, but everything will be on dress parade and the people of Atlanta will have an opportunity to inspect the new quarter-of-a-mile board track and to speculate on the speed possibilities of the institution.

Also they will have a free band concert. The street car company will furnish a good service to the old show grounds, where the track is situated. Also there will be plenty of track officials on hand to see that everybody is provided with comfortable seats and to show the crowds around the plant.

As the new track is the very first in the southeast—and the very newest on the continent and the most improved, it will be well worth the trip.

The final arrangements are being made for the opening a week from tomorrow night. Tickets will be placed on sale Monday at Shepherd's Segar Shop, 24 Edgewood avenue. The charges will be 50 cents for grand stand seats and 25 cents in the infield. All who take grand stand tickets will get seats. In the infield there will be rough benches, which will accommodate a large part of the crowd.

Announcement was made by leaders last night of a meeting to be held Friday night, when more complete plans for the conducting of the effort will be evolved.

MRS. BENNETT SAYS "PUBLISH"

Thinks Her Letter Made Public, Might Result in Some Good. All Ladies Should Read.

Henderson, Texas.—In a letter from this place, Mrs. T. V. Bennett says: "Last November I was taken very sick, and had two doctors. They doctored me for most everything that could be thought of, and at last they told me it would be necessary to have an operation. I couldn't give in to this, although I was suffering great pain.

Finally, I decided to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I hadn't used it but a short time before I was up, feeling good, and able to do my work.

I am still getting along fine, and can recommend Cardui, the woman's tonic, to all suffering women. I shall always praise this great medicine.

If you think my experience would be of any benefit to any suffering woman, you are at liberty to publish it."

Cardui, the woman's tonic, is strictly a woman's medicine, made up of pure, harmless, vegetable ingredients which act directly on the womanly constitution.

It stimulates the weakened organs, and helps build them up to health and strength.

We receive numerous letters, every day, similar to the one above. If it has benefited so many thousands of other women, why shouldn't it do the same for you?

Give Cardui a trial.

Thomas, of the University of Alabama.

Elaborate Exercises Close Term at Bessie Tift College

Forsyth, Ga., May 29.—(Special)—The commencement program at Bessie Tift college was in many ways the most interesting in the history of the college.

The exercises were formally opened by the meeting of the board of trustees on the 22d. The first recitation of student activity was on Friday night when the Clionian and Kappa Delta literary societies gave their entertainment. On this occasion the Clionians were represented by Misses Katherleen Morris, Gussie Peterson, Marion Bishop and Alma Stapler; the Kappa Deltas by Misses Ruth Ponder, Celeste Dominick, Ida Clark and Grace Neely.

Saturday was the fullest day in the commencement calendar. The day began with the exhibits in the art and domestic science departments. At 10 o'clock the regular yearly meeting of the Alumnae association was held and at this meeting plans were discussed for the enlargement of the work among the alumnae. Mrs. Dick Fletcher, of Forsyth, was elected president of the association for the ensuing year. The alumnae luncheon at o'clock was attended by the faculty, the class of 1913, large representations from the classes of '12 and '11, and small representations from many other classes. The loving cup, awarded each year to the class having the largest percentage of members present, fell again to the class of 1911. The class of 1912 was a close competitor, falling only four per cent behind the class of 1911.

Class Day Exercises.

The class day exercises in the afternoon followed the usual order. The history of the class was read by Miss Marion Bishop, the poem by Miss Nancye McBrayer, and the prophecy by Miss Florrie Hollis. The will, read by Paul Whatley, was written by Misses Jarrett, Shields and Rogers. In the planting of the ivy ceremonies, Miss Pearl Todd was speaker for the seniors and Miss Esther Cutts for the juniors.

The most picturesque feature of commencement was the continuation of the class exercises at the lake. This was something new and by far the most beautiful thing of its kind ever given at Bessie Tift.

The concert on Saturday evening was keenly enjoyed by a most appreciative audience.

On Sunday both the baccalaureate sermon in the morning and the missionary sermon in the evening, were delivered by Dr. J. L. White, of Macon.

Address by Rev. A. W. Beaker.

The baccalaureate address on Monday was delivered by Rev. Alex. W. Beaker, of Eastman, Ga. Following his address was the delivery of medals by Dr. A. Chamlee. The Lula Colcord Williams medal, given by Mr. Joseph Heath Williams to the most excellent regular student in the junior class, was presented to Miss Annie Ree Gamble, of Forsyth. White, for general excellence in voice culture, to Miss Gladys Askew; the Carrie Robert Talmadge medals, for excellence in the domestic science and arts departments to Miss Louise Marshall in domestic science and Miss Ethel Hall in domestic art; the Mary R. Christie medal, given by Rev. L. D. Christie for general excellence in piano, to Miss Kathleen Morris; the Henry H. Tift medal, given by Mrs. Tift for the best production printed in the current college journal, to Miss Florrie Hollis.

Captain Clayton submitted a set of plans outlining two schemes for entering the railroad tracks after the underpass is closed. One is through Alabama street around the Central of Georgia property. The other is from Wall street. Mr. Gray suggested that in view of the fact that the Central of Georgia would be called upon to aid in carrying out the project, it would be advisable for the committee to postpone the hearing until such time as he could appear.

The committee appointed Councilman Kimbrough chairman of the committee, and asked him to notify Captain James W. English and Ed. P. Ansley to appear before the committee.

The committee will take the plans when complete before Governor Brown and the railroad commission, as the recent act of the legislature requiring the closing of the pass requires that both must approve before the work can be started.

But One Thing Is Proved In Mary Phagan Mystery

ORIGINAL MURDER NOTE.

but that long tall black negro did lay his slab

WRITTEN BY CONLEY.

but that long tall black negro did it lay his shelf

Amid the warp of falsehood and the woof of conjecture, one thing stands out like a scarlet thread in the Mary Phagan murder mystery—for mystery it still is and still will be until a jury of twelve men fixes the guilt on some man or men.

That one thing—startling in its vivid contrast to the murky maze of contradictions—is the fact that James Conley, the negro sweeper employed at the National Pencil factory, wrote the notes which were found beside the mutilated and lifeless body of Mary Phagan early in the morning of April 26.

Why he wrote them, when he wrote them, whether he wrote at the dictation of someone else or whether he himself committed the crime, are matters yet to be determined. He has lied and lied out of a lie. First he said he wrote the notes on Friday; now he comes forward and admits he wrote them on Saturday, the day the murder was committed. He tells various stories about the writing of the notes. He puts improbable words in the mouth of Leo Frank. He has squirmed and twisted and backed and stalled; but once having stated he wrote the notes his handwriting proves the assertion as indubitably as if the bits of paper on which the messages were scrawled bare the crimson imprint of his fingers.

The Big Mystery.

When the Phagan case was in its infancy and the detectives were advancing theory upon theory only to cast each aside, the notes found by Mary Phagan's body proved the long stumbling block in the way of a solution of the mystery. Time and again it would seem that a plausible theory had been framed, only to be shattered when the notes were remembered. Turn which way you would in the intricate ramifications of the known facts and the purely conjectural, the notes would confront the seeker after truth.

Remember the Notes.

"But you must remember the notes," someone would interpose, and then the search for a new theory would begin all over again.

The idea that Mary Phagan wrote the notes was disposed of at the outset as utterly preposterous. In the very nature of things she could not have done so. There was little doubt that she was dead when her body was hurled into the basement below. An examination of her handwriting later proved that it was totally dissimilar to the characters of the scribbled notes.

Suspicion then turned to Newt Lee. Lee was asked to write the identical words of the notes. His writing bore little resemblance to them, although some amateur experts declared there were similarities.

When James Conley was arrested he stoutly maintained that he could not write at all. Later the detectives discovered that he had bought a watch on the installment plan and that he had signed contracts. They secured these contracts and confronted him with them. He confessed that he had lied. His motive for lying was plain as the noon-day sun. Guilty or innocent, he knew his handwriting would connect him with the crime. Handwriting does not change. Characters in writing may vary, but characteristics do not.

After the discovery that Conley could write, the work of gaining a confession from him was a comparatively easy matter. But to make assurance doubly sure, the detectives, without letting him see the notes found in the cellar of the National Pencil factory, dictated their contents to him and he was told to write the spoken words. Laboriously he wrote. As character followed character and word followed word, the result was startling. No forger could have produced the same result. The characters were identical.

Take the first word, "but," of the two notes. Could anything be more perfect than the similarity? And the next word at the next?

The discovery that Conley wrote the notes is the most important thing about the whole case thus far unearthed and made public—it is the only thing established beyond question of reasonable doubt save that little Mary Phagan went to the office of the National Pencil factory on Memorial day to draw her pittance of pay and that her dead body was discovered by Newt Lee, the negro night watchman, at 4 o'clock the following morning.

NEW SCHEDULE ASKED ON FORT VALLEY LINE

Railroad Commission May Order Changes on Atlanta and Florida Division.

Owing to numerous complaints that have been received from people living along the line, the railroad commission will probably order soon a change of schedule of passenger trains on the Atlanta and Florida division of the Southern railway, running between Atlanta and Fort Valley. It is proposed to have the morning train leave Atlanta about 7 o'clock, arriving at Fort Valley about 11:15 o'clock; and the afternoon train leave Fort Valley about 4 p. m. and arrive in Atlanta about 8:15. Chairman Murphy Candler was in receipt yesterday of a letter from a Southern official indicating that the proposed change of schedule would be acceptable to the railroad.

A strong effort is being made by the railroad, however, to have the commission allow it to take off one train altogether.

Services Lasted for Two Years.

Something over two years ago, after a protracted hearing the commission ordered a double daily passenger train service on the Atlanta and Florida division to be maintained for at least one year, with a close connection at Williamson, by trains each way with trains from Atlanta to Columbus, via McDonough.

The Southern established the additional service by putting on passenger trains Nos. 31 and 32, but in order, it claims, to make the Williamson connection, No. 32 for Fort Valley had to leave Atlanta at 5:30 a. m., and No. 31, from Fort Valley had to reach Atlanta at 10:25 p. m.

The Southern railway has now applied to the commission for permission to discontinue these two trains on the ground that they are operated and have been continuously for over two years at an actual loss.

Early and Late Schedules.

The commission has also received many complaints from patrons of the road between Atlanta and Fort Valley of the inconvenience of departures and arrivals in Atlanta. It is alleged that these unconveniently early and late schedules have kept down the patronage of the trains and prevented their profitable operation.

The commission is of the opinion that there is truth in these claims and has suggested to the Southern a change in Atlanta departures and arrivals. The Southern officials are favorable to the experiment before pressing their application for discontinuance, and have suggested that the morning trains out of Atlanta leave about 7 o'clock, arriving at Fort Valley about 11:15 o'clock and the evening trains into Atlanta arrive about 8:15, leaving Fort Valley about 4 p. m. These schedules, however, would break the close connection now maintained at Williamson. The Southern insists that its records show there is very little interchange of traffic at Williamson.

Will Sound Patrons.

The people between Atlanta and Fort Valley are insisting on more convenient schedules upon the road, which they claim should take priority over other sections served by other roads.

The commission will attempt to ascertain the sentiment of all the public affected, and is therefore preparing to communicate with citizens along the line to Fort Valley, and between Williamson and Griffin, prior to any action on the Southern's petition.

WHIFFS

In Hard Luck.

THE PALM must be handed to Joe Jackson for being the hard luck boy This is his fourth season under the big tent and his batting average for the entire period averages over the .400 mark, yet he has yet to lead the league batters. A certain Georgian by the name of Cobb is the answer. Never in the history of the game has such tough luck befallen a good swatter as has been Jackson's.

Best Race Ever.

THE SOUTHERN league pennant scrap this season promises to be the best that has ever been waged in this circuit. On present form, every team in the league barring the Pelicans, and C. Frank may strengthen them at most any moment now, has a look in for the rag. If the Gulls can be brought down into reaching distance, the battle for the gonfalon this season may see all eight teams fighting until the last ditch.

Congratulations.

THE PEPPER that has been infused into the Crackers in the past couple of days is worthy of commendation. A continuance will bring desired results. The present team is the best that ever represented Atlanta. If they keep up their fighting, peppery spirit, all that has been lacking to date, the club that beats out Atlanta will be the one that will cop.

Warm Weather.

THE EFFECT of the last few warm days on the pitching of the Crackers is certain to be noticeable. There has been a general improvement in nearly every twirler on the staff, an improvement which pleases every one. The team, with good pitching, is sure to go strong.

Getting Better.

ANOTHER factor in the improvement of the team is its base running. During the present home stay, the club has run bases in most approved style and the men have registered about as many steals in the past two weeks as in the rest of the season combined.

Need Practice.

ONE DEPARTMENT alone needs improvement, and this can be improved with practice. The locals are poor bunters. One poorest in the league. But one thing at a time. They are showing such marked improvement in the other departments of play that the sacrificing art is sure to come sooner or later.

Wonderful.

REPORTS have it that this is Dave Robertson's first year in professional baseball. If this is so, we doff our Kellys to the young eighthfielder of the Gulls. Any man that can break into the Southern league and hit as well as this lad has done is "there" all the way across the board and we must give him his just dues.

Have Good Claim.

ALABAMA has a good claim to the Southern intercollegiate college baseball championship, in fact, a better claim than any other team in the south. But the palm cannot be awarded to the Tuscaloosans. The two defeats handed them by the University of Georgia cannot be erased. The best we can do on the ranking of the southern college teams is to class Alabama and Georgia alike. On percentage, pure and simple, Alabama has the call, but you cannot get around those two Georgia defeats, anyway you figure it. Even the most partisan Alabama support is forced to admit this.

Have Real Class.

THE ALABAMA nine possesses real class. No better evidence is needed than in the professional offer members of the team have received. Mitford Pratt, pitcher, has already left to join the St. Louis Browns, Holt McDowell, left fielder, is going to join the Montgomery Billikens in the near future and Coach Graves is said to be slated for a berth with the Mobile Gulls.

About the Pels.

THE SCRIBE on the New Orleans Item breaks into verse when the pour showing of Frank's team. Here it is:

Twinkle, twinkle, little team,
Dimmer daily grows your gleam.
Once we figured you a star,
Now we don't know what you are

Washington 16, Thomson 3.

Washington, Ga., May 29.—(Special.) Washington played rings around Thomson in the opening game of the season on the local diamond this afternoon. The score was 16 to 3 in favor of Washington. A line drive in the first inning broke Third Baseman Brown's finger. With Brown out of the game, the Thomson team went to pieces. Heavy hitting for the locals was the feature of the game. Batteries for Washington, Norman Colley and Jackson; for Thomson, Gheesling, Brown and Johnson. Nineteen hits for the locals against nine for the visitors tells the tale of the game.

Loose Work and Scratch Hits Feature First Billie Game; Jantzen and Brady Hitters

By Dick Jemison.

In the best baseball weather of the season the Crackers and the Billikens played the worst game of the season Thursday afternoon, the Billikens winning, 7 to 4.

It was the weirdest pastime that has ever been staged on the local field, and the contest dragged through two hours and twenty minutes before it was brought to an end.

Errors of commission were numerous and a prayer, and the latter was given more so. In fact, there was every brand of the worst kind of ball that could possibly be played by two teams.

King Brady pitched for the Crackers and Charlie Case for the Billikens. Neither had more than the proverbial glove and a player, and the latter was not working overtime. Neither deserved to win. The only answer is that Brady and his support were worse than Case and his backers.

"Breaks" Numerous.

That little intangible object called "break" was in evidence throughout the pastime more than any other one factor, unless it was bad playing.

First the Crackers would get the "break," then it would switch to the Billies, shifting back and forth until it settled with the Billies to stay, and they won. "Hard Luck" Charlie chased the jinx after the fifth inning, and the "break" followed him until the end.

The errors that the two teams made, came at most critical moments, practically every one of them figuring in the run getting, though those of the Crackers were the most costly.

The hitting of Brady and Jantzen was the one bright feature of an otherwise uninteresting battle. The former got four clean swipes in four times up, the latter four in five trips to the platter.

Many Scratch Hits.

Never has a game been played at Ponce de Leon where so many scratch hits have been registered. Each team had six, and every one of them were of the flukiest variety, little taps that either wiggled just by the fielders or were so slow that the batters out ran the throw for a hit.

The Crackers had the advantage of these flukes in the early part of the game, the Billikens getting them when they counted the most, in the eighth inning, when the winning runs were scored.

The Billikens were the first to score. Walker worked Brady for a free ticket, was sacrificed to second by Wares and counted when Manning smashed a clean wallop in right. Manning, who is the former University of Alabama twirler, was playing third base in the absence of Captain Bill Elwert, who is hors de combat.

The Crackers tied it in their half. Long got a scratch hit, but was forced by Welchonce. Harry advanced to second on Case's infield out, and went to third when Bailey beat out an infield roller.

Crackers Take Lead.

The Crackers took the lead in the third inning. With one gone, Agler scratched a pop fly to the infield that fell safely. Brady sent him to third with a clean wallop to right, and Long smashed one to left, for a cushion counting him.

It looked like the Crackers had won a ball game when they counted twice in the fourth, but it was evidently not Jim Brady's day!

Bisland opened the inning with a wallop to left. Chapman got his first hit since becoming a Cracker, when he sent one to center, advancing to second when the play was made to get Bisland at third. Brady counted them both with a clean wallop down the first base line.

The Billikens got two runs in the fifth that they never should have had, but for two errors and some dumb work. Gribbens smashed a clean one to center. Case hit to third. Wallie played the ball to first, but no one covered the bag, and Gribbens seized the opportunity, going to the far corner.

Walker was easy and things looked o. k., despite the fact that Wares smashed a clean single scoring Gribbens. Long juggled the ball, Wares going to second and when he threw badly he kept on to third, scoring on Manning's wallop to left.

The Billies had it in the sixth. Jantzen opened the inning with a biff and stole. Knaupp was easy. Gribbens hit to Brady, and with Jantzen in a trap, he threw badly to Bisland, the Montgomery outfielder romping all the way home on the error.

Billies Win It.

The game was won in the eighth. Kutina got a free ticket and Jantzen beat out a short bunt down the first baseline, no one covering first to take Chapman's throw. Knaupp sacrificed them both up a base. Gribbens was walked purposely, and Brady fanned Case.

Walker scratched a slow roller to Bisland that could not be fielded in time, one run clattering across the pan, and when Wares smashed one at Brady too hot to handle, another came across.

Jantzen's fourth hit and his second stolen base followed by Knaupp's triple, scored the final run in the ninth.

Cavet was wild but effective, except in the first inning. The visitors threw away several chances to score by their daring on the paths. Starr's batting featured.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 29.—After two were out in the ninth inning today, and the score 7 to 6 in favor of Chattanooga, Seabough, as pinch hitter, scratched a hit in front of the plate and Merritt hit over the fence, winning the game for Memphis. Two errors, two hits, with two bases on balls, gave the visitors a one-run lead, after which Dygert pitched good ball. The locals batted hard and went to the front in the seventh, knocking Parsons out and continuing at the expense of Harrell.

Birmingham, Ala., May 29.—With the score 4 to 1 in favor of New Orleans, the locals in the fifth inning of today's game rallied and batted in six runs. With the bases filled, McGilvray hit to left for a home run. In the fourth, with the bases full, Adams, of New Orleans, cleared them with a double. The game was slow, and but for terrific hitting by both teams would have been uninteresting. In addition to McGilvray and Adams, Messenger played star ball on the offensive. He scored three runs.

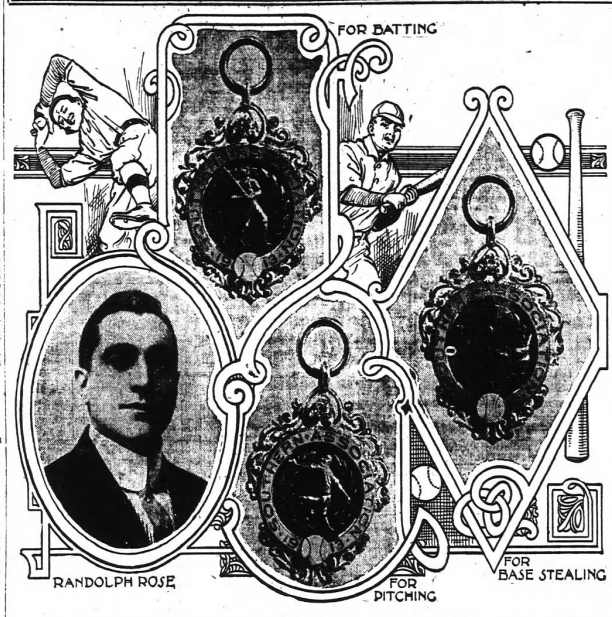
COLLEGE ATHLETES TO GATHER TODAY

Thirty-Eighth Annual Intercollegiate Championship at Harvard Stadium.

Cambridge, Mass., May 29.—The best athletic productions of a majority of the large universities and colleges in the east were gathered here today for the thirty-eighth intercollegiate championship games which will be held in the Harvard stadium tomorrow and Saturday.

The weaker portion of the 700 runners, leapers, jumpers and weight hurlers will be eliminated tomorrow in the trials, and on Saturday the team scoring the largest number of points will carry home the championship. The University of Pennsylvania will defend the title won last year.

MEDALS FOR SOUTHERN LEAGUE STARS



Randolph Rose, of Chattanooga, has offered three medals for the Southern league players who lead the league this season in base stealing, in batting and in pitching. The above is an excellent reproduction of the medals and their donor.

Crackers and Barons Swap Attractive Playing Dates

The rivalry between Birmingham and Atlanta has cropped out again. Slagville club owners say that they are going to make Atlanta look like thirty cents, while the local moguls retort with a comparison of a pewter nickel and the Barons.

It all comes about in this manner: June 9 has been selected by the Barons as pennant raising day at Rickwood field and the Crackers have been given the choice date as the Barons' opponent.

June 10 has been selected by the Crackers as the day on which President Kavanaugh will present to the Crackers the trophy that they won by having the largest paid attendance at the opening game of the present season. The Barons draw this choice date on the local schedule.

The rivalry of the opening day will exist on these two dates. The Barons claim that they are going to have so many persons in the park June 9 that the Crackers will have to stand them on the railroad track to equal it.

The Crackers claim in retort that if the Barons have as many persons at their game as the locals will have here that the entire population of Birmingham, Bessemer, Anniston, Tuscaloosa and other cities will have to be turned out en masse.

All of which is promoting a good natured rivalry between the two teams that should be interesting not only from box office receipts but from a playing standpoint.

CHAMP HILTON HAS CLOSE CALL

Young Schmidt Makes Him Go Nineteen Holes to Win. Hilton Plays Harris in the Finals Today.

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 29.—Though defeated in the sixth round of the amateur golf championship today by Harold H. Hilton, the English crack of the Royal Liverpool Golf club, W. Heinrich Schmidt, the young player of Worcester, Mass., by his plucky fight in the estimation of the British golfers, established his right to rank with "Chick" Evans and Fred Herreshoff as among the greatest young golfers America has produced.

For eighteen holes Schmidt made the English man fight every inch of the way.

Schmidt had bad luck. Time and again he lipped the hole with long puts.

The men were tied on the eighteenth and an extra hole had to be played. Hilton outdrove Schmidt off the tee, but the Massachusetts lad made up on his second. Hilton, however, holed a long put and won the hole in three against Schmidt's four.

A gallery of 2,000 followed the match, but did not disturb in the least the American. He was as cool as a veteran. He took his defeat in a sportsmanlike fashion.

In the semi-final round, Hilton beat Alymer, West Surrey, by 1 up, and tomorrow will play Harris, of Acton, for the championship over 36 holes.

MERCER FRATERNITIES PUT UP TO TRUSTEES

Macon, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—The faculty of Mercer university today decided to pass the fight for the abolishment of the Greek letter societies from the university up to the board of trustees without any recommendation, the trustees meet here next Monday and the whole thing will be threshed out at that time.

When the faculty met today there were three petitions on file, one from the non-fraternity men, signed by 148 students; one by the fraternity men asking for a hearing befor ethe question is disposed of and signed by 90 members of the six fraternities at the university, and one from President S. Y. Jamison, asking for the abolishment of the fraternities on the ground that they are a detriment to the institution.

The fight over the "frats" is growing warm, but at the present time the "nons" seem to have the upper hand.

NEGROES RUN AMUCK ON EXCURSION STEAMER

Columbus, Ga., May 29.—(Special.) The steamer Three States, returning early this morning from an all-night excursion trip down the river, in which the passengers were negroes, brought back a story of tragedy.

He then seized Louis Carter, the other's younger brother, to throw him overboard also, but the little negro drove a dirk entirely through his neck. Mortally wounded, Jackson was still trying to throw the other overboard when Carter got the dirk out and sank it to the hilt in the other's shoulder.

Jackson is dead and Carter is being held for murder.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—With the completion of the time trials late today, everything is in readiness for the start of the third annual 500-mile automobile race at the speedway at 10 o'clock tomorrow. Cash prizes of $75,000 and valuable trophies are offered by the speedway and accessory concerns.

Showers are predicted for Memorial day, but if the race is started the speedway management has decided nothing shall stop it. In case the rain is heavy enough to prevent the start, the race will be run Saturday.

Tonight the streets are filled with automobiles and the sidewalks crowded with motor enthusiasts. Hotels were booked to their capacity weeks ago. The weather is warm and many will be allowed to sleep in the parks tonight.

Parade of Nations.

Preceding the start of the race there will be a "parade of nations." First the entries from the United States will pass in front of the grandstands, while the massed bands will play "America." After the American-made cars will come those of England, France, Germany and Italy, each bearing the flag of its country, while the band will play the national airs of the different nations. The twenty-seven cars entered in the race will then line up for the start.

Carl G. Fisher, president of the Speedway company, will race the entrants one lap, which will not count, and at the completion of the round a bomb will start the best cars of the five nations away on a grind of 200 times around the 2½-mile brick track.

Great Crowd Expected.

With the race once under way, no one except Charles P. Root, of Chicago, the official starter, will be allowed on the track until the contest is ended. A. R. Pardington, of New York, is the referee.

The speedway management reported tonight that the advance sale of seats had greatly exceeded those of the two previous races and that they expected at least 100,000 would attend. More than 200 newspaper men are here to write the story of the race, one coming from Paris, France.

Bob Burman continued to be the favorite in the betting, with several other American entries being given odds against the foreign-made cars.

Metropolitan Handicap Will Be Run Off Today

New York, May 29.—With fourteen entries, comprising the class of the American thoroughabred field of today, the ninth running of the Metropolitan handicap will be staged at Belmont Park, Long Island, tomorrow afternoon. Established in 1903, this turf classic was run annually until 1910, when the abandoning of racing in New York state caused the event to be dropped. During the eight years it continued the race was one of the features of the American turf season, attracting the entries of the best and fastest horses in training. The winners follow:

1903, H. P. Whitney's Gun Fire; 1904, H. B. Duryea's Irish Lad; 1905, dead heat between James R. Keene's Sysonby and L. Richard's Race King; 1906, J. A. Drake's Grapple; 1907, J. H. McCormick's Glorifier; 1908, B. Schreiber's Jack Atkin; 1909, S. C. Hildreth's King James; 1910, Oneck Stable's Fashion Plate.

The record of 1 minute 37 4-5 seconds for the mile is held by Fashion Plate and the record value was $11,-850, won by Gunfire in the initial event.

The entries for the Metropolitan, which is the feature event selected to mark the revival of racing on the Metropolitan circuit, together with the weight follow:

Metropolitan handicap, 3-year-olds and upward, $2,500 added; one mile: Bob R., 105; Merry Task, 109; Aldebaran, 105; Light o' My Life, 118; Guy Fisher, 109; Bard of Hope, 98; Whisk Broom II, 126; Night Stick, 98; Sprite, 116; Yankee Notions, Springboard, 103; Dr. Duenner, 103; G. M. Miller, 100; Meridian, 120.

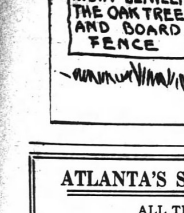
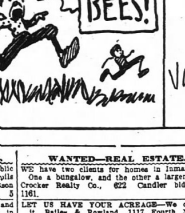
THE TALE OF THE LOST MYSTERY.---Continued from Yesterday





ATLANTA'S STRIDES, DAY BY DAY

ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

A good-sized crowd was present and bidding was lively when the Ralph O. Cochran company sold at public auction No. 101 West Tenth street for $10,125 Thursday afternoon.

The property was owned by W. C. Harper, and was purchased by E. M. Fischer. It consists of a nine-room colonial residence on the north side of Tenth street, just west of Spring street. The lot has a frontage of 100 feet, with a depth of 200 feet.

Equitable Building Changes Name.

Within a few days the name of the Equitable building will have passed into history. The name of this building, the oldest skyscraper in the city, has been changed to the Trust Company of Georgia building, and workmen are now busily engaged in taking out the old name over the Edgewood avenue and Pryor street entrances, where the new name will be engraved.

The change is made by reason of the fact that the agreement made years ago that the building should be called the Equitable building because of a substantial loan for its construction made by the Equitable Life Insurance company, has long since expired, and there is now no reason why the Trust Company of Georgia should not place its own name over the doors of the building in which it does business.

Saturday's Auction.

Forty residence lots will be offered at auction Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock by John H. James, auctioneer, for J. T. Elliott. The lots consist of practically two entire blocks, beginning at the southwest corner of Ashby and Simpson streets. There is a ten-minute street car schedule to the city from the property. Plats are obtainable at the office of Mr. James, 415 Atlanta National bank building.

Man Who Shot Blackstock Brought Back to Atlanta and Then Released on a $1,000 Bond.

"Huh" Talley, notorious Blind Tiger, who shot "Crip" Blackstock on Peters street Monday morning, returned last night from Union City, Campbell county, in custody of Detective Harper of the Atlanta police force.

When brought to the police station Talley insisted upon being taken to the Tower. After being in jail a few minutes, Charles B. Thompson, a broker in the Equitable building, made bond for $1,000, set by Justice Powers, and he was released.

When at the police station Talley looked sick. When in the Tower, and away from the influence of Recorder Broyles, his spirits rose wonderfully. With his hat set jauntily on the side of his head, he shook hands pleasantly with every one about.

"Nothing doing on the publication line, son," he said, when he saw a reporter enter the building. "Nix. I don't talk, never. And my word's good there."

"Huh, they say that Blackstock is going to get well. Makes you feel good, doesn't it?" the reporter asked.

"Huh, none of my business," he said, setting his hat a little more rakishly on his head. Then for the next ten minutes he talked on farming and feeding of cattle.

The only time that Talley spoke of the shooting of Blackstock was when he looked at the butt of the gun in Jailer Suttles' pocket, and said:

"See, that gun looks something like the one that I used on Blackstock."

RADCLIFFE IS BOUND OVER IN MACON COURT

Macon, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—W. J. Radcliffe, the Atlanta man who several days ago ran down Edward Green, a cripple from Monticello, with a motorcycle, was this morning bound over to the city court by Recorder Daly when arraigned for the third time since the accident. His bond was fixed at $300. The charge is violating the state automobile act, which makes it a violation of law to pass an intersecting street at a rate of speed greater than 6 miles an hour. Green, the injured man, is reported to be in a dying condition at the hospital, and all hope of his recovery has been abandoned. In searching his clothes yesterday for personal effects, the doctors at the hospital found a check for $1,800 made out in his favor. It is said to be worth its face value.

Macon Barber Freed.

Macon, Ga., May 29.—(Special.)—Brown Raines, a local barber, was freed of the charges of carrying a pistol and shooting at another today when he appeared before Recorder Daly.

The charges grew out of a difficulty between Raines and A. E. Taylor, several weeks ago on Poplar street. Raines was walking along with his wife when he saw Taylor in a drug store. He accosted Taylor about a small debt. Taylor resented it and the two men came to blows, Raines being knocked down. When he hit the pavement he had his gun in his hand and he used it, the bullet passing through Taylor's coat, but leaving him uninjured. Friends intervened and further trouble was prevented. Since then the case had been hanging fire until finally disposed of this morning.

EXHIBIT WOULD BE BIG SUCCESS HERE

Atlantans Who Went to Chattanooga Yesterday Bent on Installing Permanent Show in This City.

Sixty-five members of the chamber of commerce who went to Chattanooga yesterday to inspect the manufacturers' exhibit of that city came back last night enthusiastic boosters of a similar permanent exhibit here of Atlanta made goods.

The party had two special cars which were attached to the Dixie Flyer both on the going and returning trip, and every provision was made for their comfort en route by the railroad officials. C. E. Hattaway, general passenger agent, went along and took personal charge of the party on the train.

Shown Over Exhibit.

Arriving in Chattanooga at 11:55 o'clock, the Atlantans proceeded at once to the exhibit building, escorted by Chairman Temple, of the exhibit committee of the Chattanooga Manufacturers' association; O. L. Bunn, secretary and manager, and President Mahoney, of the Chattanooga Chamber of Commerce.

The Chattanooga exhibit was found to be a bigger thing than the Atlantans had anticipated. It fills a building, 50 by 110 feet, and four stories high. The exhibit is only four years old, and it has been doubled in capacity within the last year. The building is the property of the Manufacturers' association which bought it by an issue of bonds. The rental of space in the building to exhibitors has amply sufficed to pay all expenses, including interest on the bonds, and to create a sinking fund to pay off the original debt.

25,000 Visitors This Week.

Members of the Chattanooga association reported that 25,000 visitors have gone through the exhibit this week while the confederate reunion has been in progress. Every New Year's day the managers of the exhibit keep open house for the people of their own city, and on the first of last January there were fully 15,000 citizens of Chattanooga who went through the building.

Be Big Success Here.

There are 120 exhibitors in all in the Chattanooga exhibit. It is estimated that this city, with its 548 factories, as against the 300 of Chattanooga, can easily support an exhibit almost twice as large. Members of the chamber of commerce are convinced that the exhibit will not only be practicable and easy of operation, but will greatly enhance the prosperity of the city by advertising its products and informing the public-at-large of the splendid opportunities for investment it offers.

A committee of the Ad Men's club, consisting of Fred Houser, Ivan E. Allen, Paul Reese, and others entertained the party with songs and jokes on the return home.

The party was composed of the following:

Wilmer L. Moore, V. H. Kriegshaber, John Morris, J. R. A. Hobson, Ivan E. Allen, Walter G. Cooper, J. P. Stevens, M. M. Davies, H. B. Chamberlain, A. E. Hill, J. P. Cannon, Ralph T. Jones, William T. Lowenstein, Paul P. Reese, W. O. Steele, W. A. Brower, Royston Cabaniss, H. K. Ward, E. A. Massa, C. M. Kennedy, D. Goldin, James Duffy, M. W. Savage, J. R. Meredith, R. L. Proctor, Charles D. McKinney, R. M. Foote, M. H. Manheim, N. E. Martin, J. A. Hartlandinger, Vance Cox, C. V. Strickland, Francis Kamper, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fisher, Mrs. George Dolvin, Mrs. P. G. Johnston, Miss Mary Dozier, S. J. Sheffield, F. D. McMillan, W. D. Hardaway, R. H. Barnwell, M. A. Rose, A. Ten Eyck Brown, T. Z. Catheart, W. R. Ryan, R. S. Hayes, W. D. Hoyt, E. L. Harding, Dr. W. L. Gilbert, E. L. Gardener, C. E. Sciple, J. H. Andrews, Fred Hoyt, R. W. Rowe, C. W. Russell, W. T. Winn, J. H. Byrley, George Holliday, M. R. Miles, W. E. Williams, R. Bartlett, Fred Houser and C. E. Helmer.

It was very much regretted that Brooks Morgan, chairman of the arrangements committee, could not go, he being detained in this city by court business.

AT THE THEATERS

"St. Elmo."

At the Atlanta.

Miss Billy Long and her associates have but three more performances in "St. Elmo," at the Atlanta, and large crowds are sure to greet them in this popular production. The company goes to Nashville after this week, and the Atlanta will be closed until the regular season opens next fall. "St. Elmo" has been drawing the largest crowds of the summer season, and in these last three performances all the friends of Miss Long and her associates will come to bid them farewell. The matinee Saturday is at 25 cents.

"The District Leader."

At the Bijou.

"The District Leader" still continues to draw good houses to the Bijou. It is a rollicking musical play, with a good story, and lots of pretty musical numbers, and it is rendered by a clever company. The entertainment as a whole is pleasing Bijou audiences. Next week will usher in the appearance of Max Spiegel's College Girls, a musical comedy tabloid with vaudeville interruptions that has been breaking all records over the circuit. It is just the style of show that will attract Bijou audiences, and should prove one of the most popular offerings of the season.

Blanche Walsh.

At the Grand.

"Resurrection," the great Tolstoy drama, with Blanche Walsh in the leading role, opened at the Grand yesterday in its new motion picture form, and proved one of the most remarkable moving picture engagements of the season. Those who saw Miss Walsh in the original stage production were struck by the faithfulness of the photographic reproduction.

The scenes in the Russian country home, the tavern, the women's cell in prison, the courtroom and the convicts' march to Siberia, are wonderful in their realism. The play is here till Saturday night.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

There could be no better evidence that the Forsyth will offer the best vaudeville obtainable this summer than is found in the bill presented this week, with the wonderful Maggie Cline as the headliner. The bill throughout is an excellent one, and carries a strong appeal to all lovers of high-class vaudeville. Next week the world favorite, and particularly the Atlanta favorite, Lillian Shaw, will be the headline-

New York, May 29.—Rector's has failed. The corporation operating a hotel and restaurant of that name, one of the most pretentious in the theater district, owes nearly $500,000 and has assets of not more than $50,000, according to an involuntary petition in bankruptcy filed by creditors today. A receiver was appointed.

Those present at the luncheon were W. C. Mansfield, Dr. Marion McH. Hull, Dr. Joseph Broughton, C. V. LeCraw, C. J. Kamper, John S. Spalding, Walter Colquitt, W. M. Everett, W. W. Gaines, J. V. LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

RENEWED WEAKNESS SHOWN BY COTTON

Market Closed Steady at Decline of Three to Fourteen Points.

New York, May 29.—The cotton market showed renewed weakness, under continued old crop liquidation and favorable new crop accounts, with the close steady at a net loss of 3 to 14 points. Business was probably restricted, to some extent, by the prospect of three days adjournment, but trading was active at times and new crop positions sold back to practically the 11-cent level.

The market opened barely steady at a decline of 19 points on May, and of 4 to 11 points on later months, after a renewal of yesterday's selling movement, lower Liverpool cables reports of labor troubles in Lancashire and favorable private condition reports. There were some additional May notices circulating, also a few June notices, which increased the nervousness of the market, and old crop months sold 12 to 19 points net lower shortly after the call. Buying of late deliveries against old crop sales and covering of shorts for over the holidays, rendered new crop deliveries relatively steady and caused slight rallies from time to time, but poor cash positions reached the low point in the late trading and closed at a rally of only 2 or 3 points.

Two private crop reports were issued, one making the condition 80.5 and placing the increase in acreage at 4.6 per cent, while the other placed the condition at 84.6 and indicated an increase of 3.7 per cent in acreage.

A canvass of the local trade resulted in 85 estimates as to the probable showing of the government crop report on Monday which averaged 83.1 per cent, comparing with the official June condition of 79.9 per cent, last year, and a ten-year average of 79.9 per cent.

The New York market will be closed from tonight until Monday evening, good Tuesday. New Orleans will be open tomorrow, but closes Saturday, while the Liverpool market will remain open for business as usual.

Detailed weather reports showing higher night temperatures in the belt were considered favorable and there was nothing in the official forecast to attract criticism.

Cotton, spot quiet, 10 points off, middling uplands, 11.80; sales, 104 bales.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, May 29.—Cotton was depressed today by favorable weather and good crop reports, bearish private bureau estimates on condition and bearish sales. Only a moderate volume of short selling was in evidence, as many bears preferred to even up over the holidays rather than to put out fresh lines. Bulls offered little to no support.

On the opening, the tone was steady and prices were 4 to points off, on poor cables and favorable weather map. No rain at all was shown in the belt, with the exception of a sprinkle or two in North Carolina, and temperatures showed signs of becoming warmer, while the forecast promised fair weather for the entire cotton belt. Private estimates spoke in a pessimistic way of the European political situation and reported renewed friction between masters and men in the cotton mills of the Lancashire district. A private bureau report on condition of 84.6 per cent caused much bearish comment.

Prices fell off another point or two, standing at a net decline of 3 to 4 points in the middle of the morning. Short covering set in and the market reacted, early in the afternoon showing a decline of only 2 to 3 points.

Selling again increased and the trading months went 6 to 11 points under the last quotations of yesterday. The close was steady at a net loss of 5 to 10 points.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, May 29.—Liverpool broke sharply today on the private estimate of condition and acreage as compared with last season. The increase of 3.7 in acreage is about what was expected and the condition of crop better than last year, is due to the improved condition in the Mississippi valley and Oklahoma. Local outside parties were again heavy sellers and very bearish, expecting Liverpool will liquidate their July holdings. There is, however, some inquiry from American spinners for our stock. Just before the close, the market rallied and was somewhat better on the curb, four to six points under last night. A bearish bureau report is expected and the trade is short.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, May 29.—Cotton seed oil was firm, closing 4 to 8 points net higher on the active deliveries in lard and exports of a better demand refiners and sheets, also covering induced by the advance in lard and export of a better demand for compound. Sales, 15,600 barrels.

HOT WEATHER RAISED THE PRICE OF WHEAT

Notwithstanding Considerable Realizing, Market Closed at Advance.

Chicago, May 29.—Temperatures of 100 degrees in southwestern Kansas today bolstered the price of wheat, despite heavy realizing on account of the holiday tomorrow, and the market closed steady at an advance of 1-8c to 1-2c net. In corn, the outcome was the same as last night to 1-8c lower and for oats unchanged to 1-8@1-4c off. Provisions finished irregularly strung out from a 10 cents' decline to an advance of 25 cents.

Not only was it hot and dry in Kansas, but the forecast was for more heat and drought tomorrow. There were also reports of high winds and grass-seed damage there and in western Oklahoma. Wheat bears were further disturbed by statements that the parched area seemed to be extending considerably. Notice was taken, too, of reports that the Indians crop was going backward. Disposition to curtail open risks in view of there being no session tomorrow was indicated by a sprinkle of rain at Kansas City. It developed, however, that offerings were being absorbed by strong interests. The fact helped rally the bulls, as also did the big exports for the week. Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour today equaled 639,000 bushels. Primary receipts of wheat were 463,000 bushels compared with a holiday a year ago.

Corn, the weather offset the bullish influence of wheat. There was much rural selling on an early advance.

Damage reports hardened oats notwithstanding liberal hedging sales.

Buying of a million pounds of July ribs, presumably for stock yards account, made most of the provision list firm. May pork was the chief exception, with an erratic decline of 10 cents.

NEW YORK

TRADE REVIEWED BY COMMERCIAL AGENCIES

New York, May 29.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say that trade reports continue to exhibit fairly sharp lines of demonstration, in that current distribution still surpasses expectations and that surplus crop-growing sections manifest more progressiveness than eastern territory. In other words, trade in the west reflects optimism, born of favorable prospects as regards wealth from crops, while eastern sections are not clouded to any great extent, by numb cutters as coming tariff conditions, while in the east repression as regards future requirements is plainly in evidence, uncertainties concerning tariff readjustment being the deterring factors.

One of the most remarkable features of the reports left after allowing for pessimism: on the contrary, most western centers are conservatively optimistic, the prevalent keynote being that trade will ultimately develop along satisfactory lines.

Money is easier, demand in the west is good, but banks are pretty well set against parting with funds except very distinctly short periods. Stock market operations remain quiet.

Business failures for the week ending May 28, (five days only), were 218, which compares with 231 in the like week of 1912.

Bradstreet's weekly report from the United States and Canada for the week aggregate 6,063,000 bushels, against 4,014,400 bushels this week last year.

TEDDY ROOSEVELT NO BOOZE-FIGHTER, SAY HIS FRIENDS

Even During the Campaign in Cuba, the Colonel Drank Only Black Coffee and Water.

HE DID KEEP, HOWEVER, "GENTLEMAN'S CELLAR"

Pinchot, Garfield, Judge Blair and Others Testify to Former President's Sobriety in Libel Suit Trial.

Marquette, Mich., May 29.—After four days of court proceedings in the libel suit of Theodore Roosevelt against George A. Newett, an Ishpeming editor who charged the plaintiff with drunkenness, it was indicated tonight that another week would be consumed in completing the case. Tomorrow being Memorial day, court today was adjourned until Saturday morning.

Colonel Roosevelt said he had no plans for tomorrow, except that he would not participate in public functions.

Attorneys Pound and Van Benschoten for the plaintiff, and Belden and Andrews for the defendant, today followed the colonel's trial through nearly every state in the union, across the Atlantic, through the Mediterranean sea, the Suez canal to Africa, through the wilds of that continent back to Khartoum, through some of the capitals of Europe and back to Oyster Bay, figuratively smelling his breath for traces of liquor.

Almost a Teetotaler.

Substantially the testimony was a repetition of that recorded at previous sessions: The colonel does touch liquor, but so rarely and so lightly that he is, in the eyes of today's witnesses, virtually a teetotaler. Those who testified today were Andrew W. Abele, a former railroad fireman of Ohio; former Judge A. Z. Blair, who disfranchised hundreds of Ohio voters for selling votes when he was on the bench; Charles Willis Thompson, a New York newspaper man; James R. Garfield, Gifford Pinchot, Lawrence Abbott, owner of the magazine of which the plaintiff is one of the editors; Edward Heller, naturalist of the African hunting expedition; O. K. Davis, secretary of the national committee of the progressive party; Philip Roosevelt, whose father is a first cousin to the former president, and Edwin Emerson, a newspaper man who was field clerk to the colonel in the rough riders regiment.

To Cover His Life.

Including witnesses already heard and depositions and witnesses to come, the plaintiff's testimony as to his sobriety will cover his life, from young manhood to the present time. The record of the case will include his conduct in public offices all the way up to the white house, his appearance on public occasions and on travels and the seclusion of his private life, scarcely without a break.

Cross examination today was alert to test the memory of witnesses, and particularly to make them show that there were real grounds for their declarations of the colonel's sobriety. The newspaper men were searched to show how intimate they had been with the plaintiff, the rough rider and the naturalist were asked how close the drinking units were to that of the colonel; the lawyers trying to discover if there had not been periods when witnesses could not have known whether the plaintiff was drinking.

Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester; James R. Garfield, former cabinet member, and Young Philip Roosevelt, familiar with the domestic habits of the plaintiff, were the witnesses of greatest interest today. Philip Roosevelt said he was 21 and a newspaper man.

Asked how long he had known Colonel Roosevelt, he replied:

"Well, he's known he all my life." In the midst of the titter that went around the room, he corrected his answer and said he had known the colonel ever since he could remember. On cross examination Attorney Andrews inquired as to the stock of liquors and wines kept at the Roosevelt home.

"Champagne?" insinuated the lawyer.

"I don't know, but suppose so."

"Brandy?"

"I don't know; I suppose so."

A Gentleman's Cellar.

Andrews continued to name over various kinds fo wines and liquors, to which Roosevelt returned the same answer concluding with: "Yes, Rhine wine; everything you would find in a gentleman's cellar."

Pinchot was anxious to explain why he considered himself an authority on the colonel's habits. The former chief forester then explained that he was a student of efficiency, and that, finding Colonel Roosevelt to be a sample of that quality studied him to determine whence it came. To this purpose he observed the colonel's eating habits, what he drank, how and what he read, how he exercised, how he transacted business; in short, every detail which might further the study. He felt qualified, therefore, to declare that the plaintiff was a man of unusually abstemious habits.

Thompson told of campaign trips he made with Colonel Roosevelt, and of having been instructed particularly by his paper to study the colonel's habits, how he said things rather than to quote his words and how the crowds and auditors seemed to take his utterances. Thompson testified that having faithfully "covered" the assignment, he knew that on these trips Colonel Roosevelt could not have become intoxicated without his knowing it.

Unusual interest centered in Garfield, a son of a president of the United States, testifying for a man who had been president.

AUTO AND PASSENGERS TAKE DIVE IN LAKE

A Pope Hartford five-passenger car went off a fifteen-foot embankment into Lakewood lake at the entrance to the driveway, leading to the dancing pavilion. The car belonged to M. M. Simmons, of East Point, but Mr. Simmons was not in the car at the time of the accident, nor does he know who had his car at that time. The party consisted of two men and two women, who declined to give their names to County Policeman Jackson.

Rocks and boulders did not stop the car, which tumbled end over end, and over the embankment into four feet of water. No one in the party was hurt, and the shallow water saved them a drenching.

Apparently, whoever was driving the car misjudged the road, but he pulled right up close to the bank. The car was not badly injured, the steering gear alone being a little the worse, as a result of the accident. No arrests were made.

CLOSING EXERCISES OF PEACOCK-FLEET

The closing exercises of the Peacock-Fleet school were held in the school auditorium, on Fourteenth street, last night. The faculty meual was won by J. Milton Coleman. His subject was "Oratorical Invective." A. C. McPhail read the "Defense of John E. Cook."

The medal was awarded by Hon. Robert Lee Avery, who acted with ri. A. Etheridge and Professor W. P. Skiles as the judges. Hightower's and Upshaw's essays were awarded first and second honors.

The exercises were brought to a close by the awarding of emblems to the members of the athletic teams.

CAPITAL COPS ABSOLVED

Disorders at Suffrage Parade Blamed on Crowds.

Washington, May 29.—Superintendent Sylvester and the Washington police are absolved from blame for the disorders which attended the big women suffrage parade yesterday afternoon, by the report of the senate committee which investigated the affair, presented to the senate today. The immense crowd that flocked to Washington for the inauguration, and the fact that street cars were permitted to operate along the line of march up to the last moment, were charged with being principally responsible.

The committee held that while some of the uniformed and some special policemen acted with apparent "indifference," and made little attempt to check the crowds, the whole force should not be discredited.

Chief Sylvester was exonerated of "hostility" to the suffragists.

Sneak Thief Gets Purse.

Mrs. Lucy B. Mower, of 64 Currier street, found a big negro seated in one of her outhouses Wednesday, who claimed to be waiting for someone. She saw him again Thursday, sneaking around, and a few minutes later noticed that a pocketbook and $7 was missing.

Call Officers Milam and Wood were dispatched to the scene and found the pocketbook thrown in the gutter, minus the contents. No trace of the negro could be found.

SENATE ORDERS PROBE OF LOBBY

days. No provision was made for open hearings.

The resolution directs the committee to report the names and methods of lobbyists and the bills they are "seeking to change."

The names of senators to whom representations by "such persons or any persons" were made, and under what circumstances, all persons to testify under oath.

Whether any senator is financially or professionally in the production, manufacture or sale of any article mentioned in the tariff bill.

The interest any senator has in legislation pending or has had in any legislation before the senate during his term of service.

President's Aid Invited.

The president is respectfully invited "to aid the committee in its investigation by giving it any information in his possession" relative to the investigation, which he "considers proper" to make public.

There was little difference of opinion over the need for an investigation. A sharp colloquy arose, however, when Senator Kern proposed an amendment to that part of the resolution dealing with the testimony of senators and information to be obtained from the president.

The Cummins resolution provided that the committee "take the statement, under oath, of all senators" who had received representations during the present session regarding pending legislation. Mr. Kern's amendment authorized the committee to "ascertain the character of representations made to influence legislation by any persons and the names of senators to whom they were made."

Senator Cummins proposed to ask the president to furnish the names of the lobbyists to whom he referred in the public statement issued by him," and "any other information about them or their efforts to bring about changes in the resolution now before the senate which will promote the general welfare." Under the Kern amendment he is invited to furnish any information in his possession with reference to the subject matter of the investigation "which he considers it proper to make public."

Comment on Amendments.

Republicans led by Senator Root and Senator Cummins declared the Kern amendments "emasculated" the resolution, and left it practically valueless while democrats under the leadership of Senators Kern and Reed held that the change made only little difference in the end to be accomplished. The Kern amendment was adopted on a strictly party vote, 38 to 28, and the resolution by a viva voce vote without any apparent dissent.

Senator Swanson said he perceived an effort to put the president in a false light by making it appear he had said senators had been improperly approached, while Senator Townsend declared the publication of the president's statement was for the purpose of influencing certain senators who were thought to be wavering in their support of the Underwood bill.

Senator Penrose told the senate he could not understand the shrinking of the democrats from appearing before the committee with information about the persons with whom they had talked. He added that he had learned to recognize instantly both the lobbyist and the business man who came to Washington with extravagant claims, but that he had learned to accept the conclusions of neither.

"But it is for these new senators I am anxious," continued the senator. "Gold bricks are floating around thick."

Another bill proposing the registration of all persons engaged in attempting to influence or promote legislation was introduced today by Senator Weeks.

TWO NEW ARRESTS IN DOUBLE MURDER

many pathetic phases of the tragedy was the ignorance of the aged father and husband that his wife and child had been slain until he was informed of the murder upon arriving in Atlanta. The only message he had received in Chattanooga was a short telegram telling that his home had burned to the ground.

Overburdened with grief at this loss, he rode to Atlanta, expecting to find his wife and Nellie under the shelter of a eighbor's hospitable roof. Immediately upon arriving, he visited the offices of Carson & Treadwell, real estate promoters, with whom he had dealt several years. They were the first to break the tragic news. So overcome with sorrow, it was many minutes before he could leave the place for the undertaking establishment of Patterson & Son.

He never viewed the remains of his woman and girl. He is 65 years of age, and fearing that sight of the horrible spectacle would result fatally, he dared not venture into the silent chapel. He gave brief directions regarding funeral arrangements, then left in an automobile for the ruins of his home to attend to the large amount of stock depending upon the mercies of a generous neighborhood.

Local Detectives at Work.

Two detectives from police headquarters have been detailed by Chief Beavers to assist Sheriff J. A. McCurdy in his investigation. They are Bass Rosser and Clarence Hamilton. Rosser has been at work on the Phagan mystery, and is a star man of the headquarters department. Throughout Thursday morning they scoured the ruins and surrounding grounds in search of clues.

Sheriff McCurdy, since learning of Wade Stevens' presence in Chattanooga at 6 a. m. Wednesday, now is inclined toward the theory of the half-breed Mexican at whom Mrs. Stevens fired two shots before her own death, when he was caught prowling around her home. A wide search is being made for this man, whose name is Dan Walker. Also, efforts are being made to locate the two suspicious negroes seen at sunrise as they drove hurriedly away from the flaming ruins of the scene.

The grief-stricken husband is an old soldier with a proud war record. With a dramatic exclamation as he left the undertakers Thursday afternoon, he vowed that the few remaining years of his life would be spent in finding the murderer.

"There's nothing else to live for," he declared, a huge tear welling into his eye. "I'll catch him if it takes a lifetime. I'll hunt him to the ends of the earth, if necessary. He can't escape, and he won't."

He stoutly declares belief in his son's innocence.

"Wade was, and is a trifle wild," he told the reporters, "and he likes to roam about a bean, but he ain't a murderer. He didn't kill his mamma and sister—he never thought of such a thing. They were as good to him as mortals could be, a whole lot better to him, perhaps, than they should have been.

And, besides, he was in Chattanooga at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning. He came across the street from my boarding house on Rosaville street at that time, because the landlady, who knows him, says she saw him. He was with two other fellows. I think he wanted to see me, but didn't have the nerve to come in. They say he wore a pair of blue overalls and a jumper.

"He couldn't have caught a train for Chattanooga after the fire was started and got there by 6 o'clock—it would have been impossible. He never did it. He isn't that kind. He's a little wild and irresponsible, but murder never entered his heart. He's not from that stock!"

Mr. Stevens was asked if he had entertained any theory of the crime.

"No," he answered. "I haven't got an idea. I don't like to think about it. It's too horrible, and I want to forget it."

The funeral and burial will be held at sunrise this morning in Meansville, Ga., the old home of Mrs. Stevens. The train leaves the Terminal station over the Georgia and Florida road this morning at 4 o'clock, arriving in Meansville within two hours. Two graves, side by side, have been prepared in the family lot, and simple ceremonies will be performed at the graveside.

The suspected son will likely be present. He has already expressed to the detective who captured him a desire to attend the funeral, and it is thought that he will be sent, in custody of a detective, to the scene. Afterward, he will be returned to police headquarters for further investigation, as ordered Wednesday afternoon by the coroner's jury.

Mr. Stevens, for the present, will reside in Atlanta at the home of a relative, C. L. Golden, at 19 Lucile avenue. He also has a son-in-law in Atlanta, Sergeant J. W. Whatley, of the police mounted squad. Sergeant Whatley, himself, is personally assisting in the investigation of his sister's murder.

Governor Brown yesterday offered a reward of $200 for the arrest, with evidence to convict, the murderer of Mrs. Stevens and her adopted daughter.

No use advertising in The Constitution unless you are willing to work. For, advertising published in this paper with the merest shred of persistency is bound to put customers in your store.

The rest depends upon you. If you're willing to serve them faithfully; ready to invite them to kick if not satisfied; ready to sit up o' nights thinking of ways to serve them better—why, then, we say advertise and keep on advertising in this paper.

But, if you'd rather sleep behind your counters. If you'd rather watch spiders spin cobwebs in your aisles. If you'd rather see the keys of your cash register accumulate rust—don't advertise in The Constitution.

However, we've an idea that you are really willing to work and really desire the services of a public crier of your wares whose voice is heeded. And, if this be so, we suggest that you try The Constitution, the paper that your father read, that you read and that your children will read—the standard southern newspaper.

How, where? Our answer—Canada.

Get out of your own country for a while; cross the border; leave the good old United States behind—enjoy a complete change of manners, customs, scenes and climate.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Temperature cooler than even Chicago and an atmosphere far more bracing because of the pine forests and clear cold streams. Fish, hunt or idle in quiet and primitive simplicity, yet under living conditions which are made comfortable, yes even luxurious, by the comprehensive resort system provided by the Grand Trunk Railway.

Farther east of the Highlands of Ontario also reached direct by the Grand Trunk double tracks are Montreal (St. Lawrence River en route), Quebec, Portland, Boston, Old Orchard Beach, and New London, Conn., while on either an extensive circle tour or direct are New York, Atlantic City, Niagara Falls and the Atlantic sea shore.
